HELLO! MY NAME IS

Ann Swartz, DVM Certified Veterinary Homeopath

Are you tired of stressful preparations and drives to the vet clinic? Do you have a herd of cats or cows [or dogs, horses, sheep, goats, pigs, chickens or combinations thereof]? Are you looking for a holistic veterinary approach that addresses your unique situation? Would you like to hear how different modalities might meet your animal companion's health care needs? Do YOU feel rushed and stressed in veterinary appointments? Dr. Ann Swartz comes to your home or ranch and has over twenty-five years experience respectfully providing and helping clients determine their approach to veterinary care.

Housecalls is the mixed animal practice of Ann Swartz DVM. The practice offers a 'holistic' approach that focuses on your animal's wellness and on your individual situation. Dr. Ann visits your home or ranch with the goal of offering safe, effective, individualized, practical, nonjudgmental, compassionate care choices for your pets and livestock.

By offering targeted nutritional therapies, herbs and classical homeopathy, yet discussing conventional medical options, you are presented with choices and encouraged to participate in your animal's health care. The practice is based on the premise that every situation is unique and, therefore, no one protocol is appropriate for every situation. Using this approach, we see that, many times, individuals reduce their medications and veterinary visits by improving overall health.

Hospice and end of life exams and consultations especially lend themselves to home visits. At these difficult times, minimizing stress can be key to a peaceful passing.

Dr. Swartz is a 1988 graduate of the School of Veterinary Medicine at Oregon State University. She continues to train with Dr. Richard Pitcairn and was certified by the Academy of Veterinary Homeopathy in 2007. For additional information, please visit www.holisticvetoregon.com or call 541 944 4122.
