SURREALIST DOOM POP

Last year, Ohio's Saintsenecca released Such Things, one of the freshest, and yet familiar, indie-rock records of 2015.

Saintsenecca's guitar-based music is sweetly earnest, exhibiting the infectious melodies and charmingly snotty lo-fi sensibilities of Pavement. In other words, Saintsenecca are quintessential college rock.

Bandleader and multi-instrumentalist Zac Little calls Saintsenecca's sound "surrealist doom pop," adding that when Saintsenecca plays live, "we are surrealist doom pop with mediocre jokes in between."

Little's words evoke Dali-esque imagery with lyrics like "hanging like a loose tooth in the sky" from Such Things' "The Awefull Yawn" track.

And that sense of humor and edge of the absurd carry over into Saintsenecca's creation story. "I met a purveyor of dream crystals," Little tells EW, describing his band's beginnings.

"It was said that if you placed the crystal under your pillow at night you would be granted access to a mystical dreamland," Little says. "Similarly, others who possessed the dream crystals could enter the same realm."

Little continues: "You could interact with these individuals in dreams, despite what might appear to be an otherwise insurmountable distance in the waking life. Here I saw all of my bandmate's bands play and I liked what they did, and asked if they would be in a band with me."

North Carolina's Des Ark and Newberg's The Hill Dogs join Saintsenecca 8 pm Monday, Feb. 1, at WOW Hall; $12 advance, $14 door. All ages. — William Kennedy

QUEERCOREPOWER

PWR BTTM is a self-identified queer-core duo from upstate New York that now resides in Brooklyn.

Last year the band gained massive critical buzz with the release of its debut LP Ugly Cherries, a collection of punk and power-pop tunes subverting heteronormative guitar rock reminiscent of Weezer.

The track "Serving Goffman" draws comparisons among personal identity, dressing in drag and the costumes worn in corporate America — after all, aren't we all just roleplaying?

"I held my breath in a suit and tie," PWR BTTM sings — members Ben Hopkins and Liv Bruce share vocal duty. "I want to put the whole world in drag," the song continues, "but I'm starting to realize it's already like that."

Elsewhere on the record, on the sweet love song "I Wanna Boi," PWR BTTM sings: "I wanna boy who'll keep the bed warm while we're watching TV ... I wanna boy who isn't anything like me."

Ugly Cherries liberates thrashing, messy-yet-tuneful guitar work and the lovesick indie-rock anthem for the queer community and beyond.

PWR BTTM plays with Eugene's The Critical Shakes and Vegetarian Cats 7 pm Saturday, Jan. 30, at The Boreal, 450 W. 3rd Ave.; $10. All ages. — William Kennedy
