

It's not outrageous to claim that Dan Savage has changed the way we all think and talk — especially talk — about sex (Google “santorum,” for example). For the past 25 years, since the 1991 advent of his “Savage Love” advice column and his rapid ascent as the national media's go-to gay guy, Savage has been battering down puritanical barriers and bludgeoning conservative homophobes with his frank, frothy and often controversial discussions of all matters sexual. In 2005, Savage coordinated the inaugural HUMP! Film Festival, in which he solicited short snippets of homemade porn from the readers of The Stranger, the Seattle independent newspaper he co-founded. An outspoken advocate for porn, Savage collected the amateur dirty movies and screened the best of them in theaters. Since then, HUMP! has gone national, and once again it's coming (in every sense of the word) to Eugene. Among the offerings of the 11th annual installment of HUMP! are: straight sex, gay sex, lesbian sex, trans sex, cosplay, bondage, masochism, fetishism, a couple of orgies, the confessions of a cum collector, lots of licking, plunging, penetrating, rubbing, a bit of pubic incineration, some ass licking, a snippet of strap-on fucking and, yes, a film noir with actual dick puppets, to name a few. The amateur pornos are by turns funny, playful, erotic, parodic and revealing, and all of them, regardless of subject and kink, are marked by a kind of playful and self-reflective candor that disarms the alarm buttons of uptight intolerance.

The HUMP! Film Festival screens 7:15pm and 9:30pm Friday & Saturday, March 4-5, at the Bijou Art Cinemas, 492 E. 13th Ave.; info at bijou-cinemas.com or 686-2458. — Rick Levin
