KIDS CAMOUFLAGE THEMSELVES AND LEARN SURVIVAL SKILLS AT WHOLE EARTH NATURE SCHOOL'S SUMMER CAMP

"Keep the Earth clean. It isn't Uranus. [No offense to Uranus.]" That's one of our favorite Earth Day slogans reminding us to tread lightly and kindly on this [thus far] singular planet we call home.

Locally, Sol Seed, Whole Earth Nature School and Pedal Power Music are reminding you to do the same with their Earth Day Celebration, a fundraiser for the school, 7 pm Friday, April 22, at Hi-Fi Music Hall; $12 adv., $15 door.

Sky Guasco of Sol Seed tells EW the benefit was a no-brainer because the nature school gives "youth the opportunity to experience nature hands-on and grow along with it. In today's society, kids are more often separated from the outdoors ... For us to have the chance to play an all-ages event and help shine light on local folks making a difference is a bonus."

Pairing with Pedal Power Music was the obvious choice for Sol Seed. "With innovative bike-powered electricity, folks at a Pedal Power Music show can add their energy to the overall experience by powering anything from event lighting to on-stage monitors or instruments," Guasco says.

Pedal Power Music founder Dave Villalobos says bike-powered performance breaks down barriers between performer and audience, adding that it's about "making a bike fun with music. Redefining the collective power of humans working together, uniting for a fun reason."

The Earth Day Celebration will be broken into two parts: an all-ages early show, including songs performed with students, at 7 pm, followed by a 21-plus show at 10 pm.

Claudia Schmidt brings her brand of jazz, folk, blues and spoken word to Tsunami Books 7:30 pm Saturday, April 23; $16.50 adv., $18 door. The Michigan-based musician cemented her place in the acoustic folk scene in the '70s and has since gone on to make multiple appearances on A Prairie Home Companion and create her own record label later bought out by the major roots label Rounder Records. For tickets, contact mmeyer@efn.org.

Experimental instrumental band Basil Rathbone may have relocated to Portland, but the quartet is kicking off its West Coast tour for its new album Hemlock in Eugene 8 pm Wednesday, April 27, at Wandering Goat; $5, 21-plus. Bands Naked and PhiloPhobia join the party. Visit basilrathbone.bandcamp.com to stream the album.

Cottage Grove's Axe & Fiddle pub features three nights of eclectic music in a row that's worth the drive down I-5. Misner & Smith, an indie-folk duo whose gorgeously wispy harmonies have caught the ear of American Songwriter, who compared them to Gillian Welch and David Rawlings, takes the stage 8:30 pm Thursday, April 21; FREE. Next up is Portland's rising hip-hop artist TheDopestMatrix 9 pm Friday, April 22; $5. Then comes Steve Poltz, whose musical record includes founding indie-rock band The Rugburns and collaborating with Jewel — together they created the 1996 hit "You Were Meant for Me." Poltz has gone on to a successful solo folk-rock career, deemed in 2000 "San Diego's Most Influential Artist of the Decade" by the San Diego Music Awards. According to Axe & Fiddle, his live shows are "the stuff of legend." See Poltz 7 pm Saturday, April 23; $12. Following Poltz that same night is freewheeling indie-poppers Dressy Bessy; $7. The band also plays Luckey's April 22. Listen to Bessy's infectiously upbeat track "Lady Liberty" at dressybessy.com.
