These young and creative companies breathe life and energy into downtown.

I promise to support the Innovation Hub concept at the old LCC building downtown and collaborate to ensure its success if the urban renewal is extended.

SUPPORT URBAN RENEWAL

The Hult Center, the library and the downtown LCC campus were built with help from Urban Renewal District funds. It is ludicrous to hear some opponents say that the tool has been a failure.

The Viewpoint in Eugene Weekly ["Kick DTURD to the Curb," May 19] last week claimed that property values have not increased. According to Trulia.com data, year over year property values are up 4.3 percent. Some properties have increased in value as much as 30 percent.

A high-speed fiber network would attract and retain businesses that can foster technology and create jobs that require creativity and critical thinking. Our median income is $10,000 less than the national average. I don't find this acceptable.

It troubles me that in a world where the best jobs (in software development) are held by mostly self-taught workers, our economy relies on a university that is failing to adjust to skills demands in the workforce.

Without purposeful development keeping the community interests at heart, we are leaving the door wide open for companies who prey on those willing to work for scraps because they don't have the mobility to seek work elsewhere. It keeps our productivity levels low, and it reduces equal opportunity for new businesses to have access to resources we need.

Please show your support for URD. If we don't create public works, private industry will only take advantage of our complacency. Visit NextGenEug.com for the ideas being proposed.
