VOLUNTEER Feed the Hungry w/Burrito Brigade, 11am, First

Amidst the hustle and bustle of the holiday season, a brief pause, to listen and share in community, can really fit the bill. And this weekend affords the chance to come together for Believe in Peace, a collaborative community concert featuring internationally famous Eugene artists Peter and Ewynne Hollens (pictured), 7 pm Saturday at the First United Methodist Church. "After the beautiful vigil concert Music Heals last year, and the current state of our world and recent national events, I felt it was time to bring people together again, to celebrate and focus on peace," Ewynne Hollens says. Ewynne and her husband Peter have a celebrity YouTube presence, with millions of fans. As progenitors of the a capella revival (he co-founded the UO's On the Rocks, she Divisi), this dynamic couple is joined onstage by standout performers, including Siri Vik, Anna Gilbert and Emily Sangder. Also sharing the gift of music will be the Oregon Boychoir, the Oregon Young Men's Ensemble, members of the Eugene Springfield Youth Orchestras and many local youth performers. "We made the show free," Ewynne Hollens says, "so families and people from all walks of life could enjoy an evening of peace and be touched by the music. First United Methodist Church is a reconciling congregation, and our 'open doors' welcome everyone, which I think is also a very important message right now."

Believe in Peace is 7pm Saturday, Dec. 10, at First United Methodist Church, 1376 Olive St.; FREE, bring donations for FOOD for Lane County. — Rachael Carnes
