There is a place, in the wooded south hills of Eugene, where children are free to have a childhood—a nurturing community where students learn, grow and strive to reach their fullest potential. At the Eugene Waldorf School, every child develops a strong foundation for creative and abstract thinking. Independent and nonsectarian, we follow the worldwide Waldorf education curriculum. Our rigorous, liberal arts curriculum emphasizes experiential learning. Our teachers guide students through developmentally appropriate lessons, inspiring the curiosity inherent in every child. Our graduates go on to become well-rounded, interested adults.
