

The University of Oregon's Department of landscape architecture is putting on a film and lecture series called The Nordic Landscape in Contemporary Film. The series runs for 10 weeks with a showing every Friday; each week there will be a different film screening from a Nordic country, in its original language with English subtitles, accompanied by a lecture by UO instructor Whitey Lueck. All five Nordic countries will have at least one film shown; those countries are: Norway, Sweden, Finland, Denmark and Iceland. This week's screening is on Friday, Jan. 12, of A Man Called Ove (pictured), a Swedish film from 2015 directed by Hannes Holm based on the best-selling novel of the same name. The Nordic Landscape in Contemporary Film series starts this Friday, Jan. 12, and runs through Friday, March 16. All showings are at 7 pm in Lawrence Hall, room 115, on the UO Campus. Seating is first-come, first-serve. All showings are open to the public and FREE. — Meerah Powell
