AND THEN WONDER
IF PRESENTS ARE TOO COMMERCIAL

BY CAMILLA MORTENSEN

The gift exchange ritual takes place all over the world and not just at the holidays. Here in the U.S., we get hyper-focused on Santa and trees — but don't let Kwanzaa, Hanukkah and the Solstice fall by the wayside.

Do you wonder: Did I give too much? Not enough? Am I buying into capitalism? Should I have bought mom a bigger present? If you like giving gifts, give them. If you like making gifts, make them. No, it's not about the loot, it's about reminding ourselves to set aside time to celebrate one another when it's dark and cold.

So, with that in mind, for this year's gift guide, we offer experiences, hand-made gifts and crass commercialism. Have fun!
