

B. & B. Cafe Opens Wednesday Noon

"Hello, Everybody, On Our Very First Menu, We Have"—and so the B. & B. Cafe opened its doors to the public yesterday at noon. Bertha Beers and Flor-Buchanan, proprietors of Brookings newest business, in their trim uniforms with "B. & B." embroidered on the pocket, did a "land office business" on their first day.

The occasion was remembered by Mrs. Ash Weimer of Grants Pass who sent Bertha and Florence a corsage of gardenias, and Mrs. Neeves and Mrs. Van Pelt of Harbor sent a bouquet of flowers. Real butter was served, also, thanks to a thoughtful and mindful traveler from Nebraska, who passed through here several weeks back. He sent new enterprise 10 pounds of pure Nebraska butter.

Peggy Ask and Helen Fisher were the first customers and a salmon steak plate was the first "casualty," when it went sliding across the highly-polished serving counter to the floor.

Wilson Freeman set up lunch to all his employees. The ladies were so excited when they opened their cafe, that they forgot the punch, but when they remembered, each customer was given either a cool, refreshing glass of punch or a cup of coffee.
