ical attention.

Bobby Longacre started work at Chad's Fountain on Monday. She had, of the past several weeks been employed at the Nook Cafe.

Halloween pranksters went quite a distance last Thursday evening when they changed road signs along the highway. "Entering Brookings" sign was put at the approach of Harbor, and other signs were changed so that Crescent City mileage sign was north of Brookings, toward Gold Beach. State highway men and state police are said to be investigating this act.

Several people around town have said that if the state police would spend more time investigating more serious things, and less time worrying about halloween pranks, they would find more cooperation in the citizens of our fair community. Halloween pranks are just halloween pranks until they become destructive, and there is nothing destructive about changing a couple of road signs although it is illegal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Brauch left Friday for Inglewood, Colorado, to live after selling their partially-constructed home to Michael Bean of Camas, Wash. The Brauchs came here last March, bought some land from Will McVay, and started a house which they had almost completed before selling.

Probably due to a gust of wind, the large display window at the Chetco Home & Auto Supply Co. fell out sometime Saturday night. When discovered, nothing seemed to be disturbed in the store, Mr. Sunderland said.

Roy O. Lovell, of Portland, purchased the duplex from Mrs. Colena Miller late last week. He told the Pilot he expected to move here within a year, and had plans to improve his property here.

F. H. Loveless, of Spokane, Wn., has subscribed to the Pilot. In his letter he stated: "I lived in Harbor for a year and am interested in keeping up with the news of that area."

Louise Logan is employed as waitress at the B. & B. Cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kessler returned late Wednesday evening from Sacramento, where they had gone on business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Currie of Detroit, Mich., are visiting in the Harbor area. They plan to return to their home later this week. He is plant manager for Reserve Lithographing and Printing Co.

Attorney Ed F. Ackley left late last week for San Francisco, to appear in a tax case. He expects to return later this week.
