That his plant may be located main street, for convenience all patrons, Edward Storset, week, is moving his cleaning establishment from the old mess building to the Young building across the street from the Cone Theatre.

Storset, who came here the past from Portland to open business, has enjoyed exceptional patronage. He feels, by his to the new location, that patrons will have a more central location for leaving their cleaning work, and that shopper come at any time they are down to call for work done.

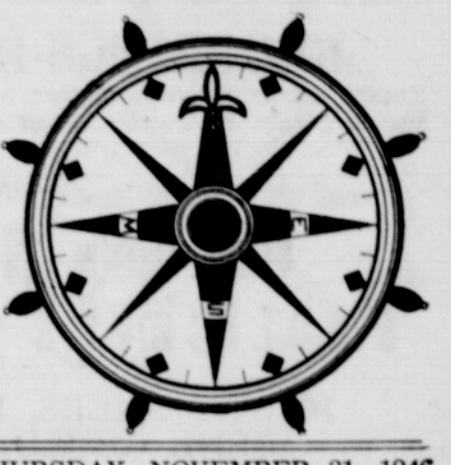

This moving operation will not interfere much with the present pace, except that cleaning may a little slower for one week.

The birthday club met Monday the home of Marie Hoar, honoring Agnes Darger and Rita... These people received a number of gifts. The afternoon spent playing pinochle. Agnes Darger won high and May Dizon prizes.

Gun Club's Big Turkey Dinner, Sunday

10 Turkeys Available for People of This Area, Sunday

provide sufficient turkeys for homes in this area. That Thanksgiving dinner, Rod & Gun Club has bought 10 dressed turkeys, to be away at the first annual shoot, billed for next Sunday, Nov. 24, at the Crissey property at the state line. In all previous events sponsored by the club, there will be entertainment for everyone, with prizes for each of these affairs. In the trap shoot, there is a rifle range where all men may vie for the birds. Games, dice games will be furnished to ladies who do not enter any of the shooting. "Mickey's Casino" will be a attraction, as it has in previous years.

According to the committee of club, which purchased these birds at a considerable expense has heaped upon the club to buy best family-sized turkeys on market. These are already and prepared, so that the wife need only to concoct dressing and trimmings so necessary to complete an American-style Thanksgiving dinner. ### Pilot Will Publish Day Earlier For Next Issue

Because Thanksgiving falls on next publication day, and because the day is a national holiday, the Pilot will enter the mails a day earlier next week.

Advertisers are asked to have their copy in a day earlier, and all correspondents are urged to have their news in at the earliest possible date. An endeavor is being made to have the Pilot in all home before Thanksgiving day.

Funeral, Saturday, For Harry Lytle

Funeral services were held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Baptist Community church for Henry John (Harry) Lytle, who died late Wednesday. Rev. C. E. Dunham pastor of the local church, officiated. Interment was at Smith River cemetery with Sidney Croft Lodge A. F. & A. M. conducting graveside services.

Born in Ontario, Canada, Jan. 23, 1882, he was 64 years, 9 mos. and 20 days at time of his death. Surviving, besides his widow, are Frank Lytle, Edgar W. Lytle and Berton Lytle of Canada, and Roy Lytle of Brookings. His mother, in Canada, also survives.

Brookings 'Independents' Start Hoop Practices

Last Friday, a group of local young men began intensive practice of basketball at the high school, to form the Brookings Independents, a town team, which has always been one of the highlights of the winter prior to the war years.

Much enthusiasm was shown at this first practice, and immediately after practice, orders were taken for new suits, which will be flashy scarlet and white.

Practices will be held Friday and Sunday evenings at 7:30 until regular games are scheduled.

Anyone may watch these practices free of charge. Games, as they have been scheduled, will be advertised in the Pilot.

Local News Items

Turkey Dinner Enjoyed, Portland, Sunday Evening

Former Curry County "People" Met At Kerr Home, Portland

PORTLAND (Special to the Pilot)—A few of former Curry County residents had another get-together meeting, Nov 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr. The evening was spent in telling of "Things" that happened down there.

Believe that the author of a book that is being printed about old "Curry" has missed a bet by not contacting someone of this group for a very unique resume of things that actually happened from a long time ago to the beginning of World War 2.

Mrs. Kerr served a fine turkey dinner with all the trimmings. Rhube Young brought a big jug of cider from his farm up on Bull Run river, which was gratefully received.

The weather was very much like some of the spring weather that we have experienced down there. Rain and blowing, made us all feel at home and wished we could be down there now to enjoy some of your famous sunshine and salmon fishing. Some of the Pilot subscribers will recognize a few of the names listed, who were at the party:

Mr. and Mrs. George Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Francis "Fritz" Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Young, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hickok, Prof. and Mrs. A. E. Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Tilton, Miss Patricia Anderson, Miss Martha Anderson, Don Simonson, Karl Fry, and Miss Kathleen Lavin

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Page, formerly of the Nook Cafe, and now living at Grants Pass, were here for a few days on business.

Joe Bailey of Gold Beach came here for a few days last week on a buying expedition for his Building Material business.

Someone saw Ralph Vincent just as he was shoving off for Brookings. That area is getting one swell citizen and it is certain he will enjoy life there.—Howard Tilton, contributor.

Newcomer Likes Alert Fire Department Here

"I've been here just long enough," said O. S. Young, who bought the building across from the Pine Cone Theatre, "to see that the volunteer fire department here is as efficient as I have ever seen. They drop everything to take off when the siren is sounded."

In his recent butane fire, Mr. Young asserted that the fire truck pulled up at his place before the sired had quit sounding.

Harbor Community Club Sets Christmas Meeting

A Christmas meeting has been set for Friday, December 6, by the Harbor Community club, at which time each member is requested to bring a gift for the gift exchange.

The Christmas program will be in charge of Mrs. Bess Miller and Mrs. Bernice Newton.

Garden Club Hears State President

Glowing with enthusiasm and beaming with love of her subject, Mrs. Walter Wilhelm, of Portland, state president of Garden clubs, spoke to an enrapt group of gardeners of the Harbor and Brookings area when the Azalea Garden Club met at the Grange hall, Thursday afternoon.

"My herbs are my notes," said Mrs. Wilhelm, as she introduced her subject, and showed a large box of herb specimens she had brought from Portland, "and my garden is just a small one—all on a city lot."

Into her talk she wove interesting and fanciful legends about herbs. She told of their origin and naming. The long use of herbs down through history, even as mentioned in the first chapter of Genesis, and back into antiquity when the Egyptians slaves built the great pyramids, herbs were used as an important and sustaining food.

Of their wide and varied uses, their important place in medicine as well as in cooking and concluded, "Herbs—the friend of the physician, and the delight of the cook."

The Angelica, used as medicine as well as in pastry and in wine, was shown and a specimen passed around. Responsible for the famous old Angelica wine is this herb, named, according to legend, because an angel had given it to a monk, calling it Angelica.

Pineapple mint, with its delightful aroma, golden mint, a native of Corsica, old fashioned rosemary and the pungent thyme, were discussed, and receipts given. "Often I am asked how much to use—I can't tell you, any more than I can tell you how much salt to use. A good rule is to use sparingly. One can always add more."

An arrangement of herbs by Mrs. Maude Sandbo graced the speaker's table, and were referred to and used by her.

Accompanying Mrs. Wilhelm were Mrs. Ralph Fowler of Pendleton, Mrs. E. H. Eisenhouse of Beaverton, and Mrs. F. G. Franks of Redmond. They drove from Grants Pass and the redwoods, so the coastal scenery was enjoyable to their.

A business session, presided over by Mrs. Mabel McVay, president, preceded the lecture. Plans were formed for the forthcoming card party and white elephant sale, to be held at the Odd Fellows hall, Saturday evening, Nov. 23 Alice Perkins is chairman in charge.

$5.00 Bill Initial Capital, Profitable Veterans' Business

Niece of Local Lady Develops Business at Portland With Pals

Three Portland ex-service men, one a nephew of Mrs. Thor Ask, ranging in age from 22 to 25, believed tales that the West is a land of opportunity. After four months of operating their own post-war business, they still do.

Pooling their capital—a total of $5.—last June, they made a down payment on a bench lathe, which they installed in a garage at the home of Don C. Richardson, president of the company, and nephew of Mrs. Ask.

They now have a $9000 plant at 4205 NE 105 avenue and will have to expand soon to handle the rush of business.

Other partners are Calvin L. Hall, an A. A. F. veteran and company vice-president, and Peter Valerico, ex-navy, who serves as secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Richardson is bookkeeper.

Richardson is also a navy veteran.

Their machinery has come from government surplus with assistance of the veterans administration and war assets corporation to each of which they gave much credit.

All three worked for the Hyster company before the war, gaining experience in metal working. Now on their own (Richardson had just started the shop before he was called to the service), they are sub-contractors for Hyster, making parts for logging equipment. They have a wide range of other work that includes machinery innovations they will be marketing after patents are obtained.

Doctor Had Narrow Escape In Wreck

While en route from his home near Hiuchi bridge in the Smith River district, to Crescent City, Sunday evening, Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Stump, of Crescent City, suffered severe shock and bruises when their car skidded on the wet redwood needles and went over the bank.

Miss Lucy Miller, sister-in-law, and office nurse, an occupant of the car, while suffering broken ribs, was able to extricate the unconscious Dr. and Mrs. Stump and administer first aid.

Besides shock, Mrs. Stump suffered severe cuts about the face, while Dr. Stump was believed at first to be suffering concussion.

They are now at the hospital at Crescent City.

The Nook Cafe has advertised a Thanksgiving turkey dinner, together with all the trimmings. The advertisement may be seen elsewhere in this issue.
