Pause Today To Reflect On The Past

Today, we have paused from our labors to gather in our family circles in observance of Thanksgiving, a tradition of this land of ours; to check our blessings, be they few or many.

These United States were founded because of oppression. Here came peoples from many lands to seek those liberties they loved and wanted for their descendents, and here was founded a government, while a product of human beings, comes nearer being that perfect government which should fashion the world's peace of the future.

There are plenty of blessing for each of us, if but take inventory. Perhaps, we fell, our labors of the past year should have netted more, yet—

Our land is not destroyed by war; our cities are intact; our peoples have not been uprooted by battles and forced to seek shelter and food from others who may have come as conquerors; we are in our own homes, regardless of their splendor.

Our government is our servant—not our master! We change its management when we please; we can remodel it at any time we see fit; we are our own government. Such is not the blessing of many nations in this world so filled with strife.

You have plenty to be thankful for, if you but look. Despite all, blessing have been many, just stop and add up everything.

Every "Christmas" dollar spent in this area is that much added to the resources of the community because these will be spent to build local schools and other community enterprises. Think of this every time you must buy anything.

While Out Shopping

By Grace Polley Stevenson

Let it rain and rain on our well-planted fields while we shop from store to store. Soon we will all have electricity and such a lamp opportunity as Mr. Hendricks shows us.

There are three-and four-way floor lamps and table lamps and bridge lamps and pin-up lamps, and boudoir lamps. There are swing arms and pottery bases and metal bases. There are extra shades of white and tinted bindings. There are boudoirs in brass and crystal and colors. In short, you'll find any lamp or accessory anyone needs for any winter fire-side.

What a thrill to our housekeeper to look over the green food tables at the Brookings Market—green food from every clime. A variety of grapes, casava, avacodos, tomatoes and citrus fruit evidence the sunniest garden home. You will keep your family in good health on lettuce, cauliflower, carrots, beets, apples, celery, parsnips, onions and potatoes. This daily changing variety of green goodies pleases the homekeeper as no other department.

Chetco Home & Auto Supply Co. will thrill you by its exhibits this week. Ready for delivery, they have a variety of radios; General Electric, Admiral and Firestone. They have a combination phonograph and radio. There are table models and midget sets as well as portable battery sets, both AC and DC. Then they will show you a lovely electric phonograph.

Brookings Radio and Electric Co. (V. A. Mendenhall Sr.) is piled with stock. There you'll find toy electric irons, a fruit juicer, single electric plates, a volcano cooker and one Schick electric shaver remaining. Also you will see a Singer electric vacuum cleaner.

Curry County Electric has just received a long awaited shipment of Philco Radios. Most all styles are ready for delivery.

Smith's Department Store has specials on cannon towels and on yardage remnants. Their showing of colored chenille bed spreads, double or single, is lovely.

Moore's Variety has a new shipment of women's and boys plaid wool shirts. These are good looking and well adapted for work in rain or in the cold. Madge always seems to have the most things on hand in her store.

When on your homeward way, stop and see the mammoth display of corned beef hash and the many cartons of Sunshine fig bars at the Chetco store. You'll simply water at the mouth.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hanscam have received word that their daughter, Mrs. Thelma Pettigrew, is ill with scarlet fever at her home in Bonanza, and the family is quarantined for a few weeks.
