While Out Shopping

By Grace Polley Stevenson

What an interesting experience it is to chat with the managers of all the Brookings business houses in one day! The Christmas rush has overcrowded Mr. Storset, who still awaits finishing for his new equipment. At the height of his rush, he wishes us all a Merry Christmas.

Madge Moore is dispensing the goods faster than ever. She offers $2 off all dressy dresses so that every woman here may have a new dress New Years.

Mr. Ask offers sweet tooth satisfaction. He sells glucose by the pound. It is to be cooked up with water, making syrup. He thanks the public for their past patronage and promises more stock of whatever is available in his line.

and general stock. Things it has been impossible to get are coming to the front. Mr. Kessler is especially optimistic over prospects in this community, backed by the last great stand of timber.

We are glad to welcome a new business in town, the Ewers Bros. Tractor and Implement Co. who established a branch here from their Grants Pass house.

Brookings Electric and Radio Co. just received a truck load of electrical equipment. Much of the stock already has been sold. We congratulate those who had seen Mr. Mendenhall before we did.

With the holiday season the splendid stock of mens and boys clothes at Wards has depleted a lot from last week. He had such good stuff for the people of this area.

The Chetco Store wishes to take this opportunity to express thanks for the patronage of the past year and the patience shown when all goods were not available.

Your New Years surprise is already in plain view at Gallagher's Plumbing shop. Gasoline engines from one to four horse power are ready for use. Mr. Gallagher has a new shipment of bait casting rods.

Lingering a few moments where

Mr. Chadwick dispenses sweets convinces us of his wisdom when he says no bigger business for him. He's too busy.

We find our well-stocked local drug store is bulding on an addition to accomodate unloading and storage needs. The bride's mother is so rushed with family affairs that she must postpone talk on business.

It is a delightful surprise to know Mr. Hendricks is already giving pre-inventory special prices that will enable the late buyer a profit for investigation. He has a still larger and better stock coming in for the post-holiday season. Mr. Hendricks appreciates the patronage of the past four months, and wishes everyone a merry Christmas.
