As I See It

By Barton W. Marsh

PEACE: What a wonderful word. Coveted by all. Attained by few. It is defined as being a state of tranquility; freedom from fear, agitating passions, and conflicts. Does anyone know of any place on earth where tranquility reigns and fear is not known?

billion or so disillusioned sojourners on this frazzled and frayed sphere are looking and longing for that sort of peace. I have not heard anyone over the radio, nor read anything in the current news that gives the faintest hint that anyone has found any such Utopia or even heard of it. Have in the morning of the human race, mankind became so wicked that it could no longer live with itself and the Lord sent a flood of water and destroyed everything upon the face of the whole earth. Only eight persons who were miraculously preserved in the ark that outrode the storms.

In process of time, after the people had multiplied, they decided to build a tower that would reach into heaven, and therefrom determine what caused so much trouble to fall upon the earth. The scripture named their tower Babel.

In the process the Lord looked upon their work, and noting the folly of it all terminated, for that period at least, their tower building. He simply mixed up their language so they could not understand one another, and therefore could not work together, so they left off their building, and began to spread out over the face of the whole earth, according to their various languages. Since that time almost every generation has produced its tower builders, who have proposed to unite the world in one great plan to make life more tranquil, by establishing security for every man.

In the line of this effort, the world, thus far has produced four universal empires; Babylon, Media-Persia, Greece and Rome. Regardless of their expressed good intentions in their beginnings, each of these empires, in their final analysis brought forth a tragedy.

Babylon, once the pride of the Chaldees excellency, has become a thing though it had not been. Its magnificent capital, with its hanging gardens and glittering palaces, is today a refuge for snakes and owls.

Iran, the shattered remnant of the once great dual kingdom of Media-Persia, is now scarcely worthy of the name of a nation. Greece, the land of art and letters, is less than a shadow of its former glory, and its people are poverty-stricken, hungry and cold.

Rome, that mighty iron kingdom, that for centuries held the world in its iron grasp, and at its peck and call, lies buried in a grave, dug by its slaves, as sought for happiness and tranquility in the gratification of its ambitious and lusts. The territory (western Europe) that was once ruled so sternly by this haughty power is now occupied by at least ten petty nations, that for the past 1500 years, have been perpetually at war with, and also preying upon one another.

Since the fall of Rome there have risen various Babel builders, who have promised great things, but in the end have brought forth nothing but misery and despair. From their number we name Charlemagne, Napoleon, Kaiser Wilhelm, Mussolini and Hitler who promised much and paid off in death, ruin and unspeakable misery.

Now the United Nations declare that it will make a final attempt to set up a better and happier world in which to live. It stakes everything upon this final effort, and is frank to state that if it fails???????

Will it succeed or fail in this last heroic effort to save the race from self-destruction? This is the great question now. So great that there is only one person in the entire universe qualified to answer it. That person is the Lord who made the heavens, the sea and the dry land, and who knows the end from the beginning. Next week, we will let His word, the Bible speak. It tells us plainly what the outcome of this present great world program will be.
