As I See It

By Barton W. Marsh

A few words in retrospect: Nisa 8, Jesus arrived at the home of Lazarus in Bethany. He spent a quiet Sabbath with his friends and in the evening attended a supper, in his honor, by Simon the leper. It was this evening, and from this time that Judas made his first contact with the Priests, to betray his master into their hands. The next day, Sunday, he led the great shouting, singing, religious multitude to the summit of Olivet, where the demonstration seemed to dissipate. On the early Monday, we again saw him in the temple, expelling the money grabbing traffickers in the efforting from the temple precincts. Unable to withstand his commands, they fled, and he healed them all. The area they so unceremoniously vacated was immediately filled with the sick and afflicted and he healed them all. On Tuesday he returns to the temple and a large portion of the day is spent in thwarting the ungodly efforts of the scribes and Pharisees to entangle him in their subtle money, (Matthew 22:15) is sufficient illustration of the method employed to attain their purpose; which was his arrest and destruction. On Wednesday was drawing to its close when he left the temple in the court, his disciples, according to the sturdy construction of the temple, asked him "What shall be the sign of thy coming, and the end of the world?" (Matthew 24:3). He proceeded to give utterance to the most striking prophesy found in the entire Bible (New 24th chapter). I regard this chapter as being the most interesting reading of any I know for anyone who may be interested in the prophetic words of Jesus Christ. He passed from the court, and his disciples came to him with the word that there were Greeks (gentiles) present who wished to see him. His reply was of startling significance: "The Son of Man should be glorified." John 12:34. He was leaving the temple never to return. He had turned to his own, and they had left him. The heathen were at the game of the temple, not to inquire of the priests and rabbis, but to inquire of Jesus Christ, the one who was about to eclipse the entire Jewish structure with the glory of a new day, and new view of God, the Father, and the great plan for revealing his love to a bewildered and lost world.

Wednesday, the Lord and his disciples were in seclusion, and apparently did not visit, either the city or the temple.

Thursday, they returned to the city and He instructed the disciples how to find the room where the passover was to be held, and to proceed with the preparation for the same. Judas again visited the priests and completed the arrangements for the betrayal. It was now evening, and they are all assembled in the upper room. Momentous indeed are the events now taking place in that upper room. The old dispensation of ritualism and offerings has met the new order with its Gospel of forgiveness and love. The last spark of the sacred fires of the sacrificial dispensation are dying upon the temple altars, and forever after the service would be but a meaningless form, dishonored of heaven and devoid of Spirit and life. "The Lamb slain from the foundation of the world" is about to become the center and substance of all Divine worship, and the rising sun of hope is preparing to send its rays into all the world.

Just outside the walls of the city, over the brook Kedron, in a garden at the foot of Mount Olivet, which is Gethsemane here, the beloved Master and Lord has chosen to make his last stand as a free man. The mob led by the priests and rabbis is on its way, and soon the Lord of life and glory is to be led away and crucified.

Food Freezing Is Topic For County Demonstrator

Will Be At Harbor Grange Hall, May 6, 10:30 a. m. to 3 p. m.

GOLD BEACH—Fine flavors can be obtained in frozen vegetables, fruit, meats, poultry, etc., if they are handled properly, and if the locker management is good. Freezing of food is rapidly taking the place of canning. The freezing preserves food values and flavor better than canning, and is much less work, according to Miss Lucy Case, extension nutritionist, Oregon State College, who has been scheduled for three days in Curry county.

R. M. Knox, county agent, announces the following demonstrations will be held on the subject of home home preparation of food for freezing and other problems in freezing food:

Harbor Grange Hall, May 6, (Tuesday) 10:30 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. Mrs. Ruth Bathiany, Harbor, will be in charge.

Gold Beach Community Hall, May 7, (Wednesday) 10:30 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. Mrs. Bert Hudkins, Gold Beach, in charge.

Sixes Grange Hall, May 8, (on Thursday), 10:30 a. m. to 3:00 p. m., Mrs. Docia Sweet, Sixes, in charge.

The general chairman for these meetings is Mrs. Fred Adams of Ophir.

The demonstrations will include the preparation of vegetables at home for successful freezing, the freezing of fruits, meat and other foods, the choice of containers and locker wraps, and other problems. Building of home freezing lockers and the buying of freezers will be discussed briefly.

The demonstration will be given by Miss Lucy A. Case, extension nutritionist from Oregon State College. Questions will be answered on the work of a county home demonstration agent.

Plans for the luncheon are: Harbor: Paper bag luncheon, coffee provided.

Gold Beach: pot luck luncheon, each person to provide his own cup, silverware, and sugar.

Sixes: Consult the local chairman.

In The Mailbox:

Dear Editor: In your recent report of our visit about my annual trip, to see my lilies, you published that I had been east. I had been at San Francisco. It makes our eastern friends wonder why I didn't call on them while east.

How do I like the price set by the co-op and dealers? Fine, someone had to have the courage to set it. Of course, it would have been more ideal if more of the growers could have had a voice in it. Now that it is done the rest of us will just stick to it. Only so many bulbs can be sold regardless of the price. 15c, 20c, 25c, and 30c would have sold what lilies will be sold just as quickly as 10, 20, 25 and 30.

Last year more bulbs couldn't be sold no matter how low the price. They couldn't be given away. Now, some of the dealers are complaining bitterly because the price has been set so low.

Do you know how to please everybody? Please send method. Neither dealers nor greenhouses want cheaper bulbs. They want less bulbs.—Mrs. May Stafford.

GOLD BEACH—The case of Milton L. DeMartin et al versus Curry County et al, which was tried in the circuit court here on Monday and Tuesday was decided in favor of Curry County, Tuesday afternoon.

This case was an appeal from the decision of the state tax commission which upheld the 1946-47 assessment rolls as set up by the Curry County board of equalization. The assessment rolls for 1946-47 now stand approved by the court.

The appellants have the right of appeal to the state supreme court, from the order of the circuit court, but have not decided whether they shall avail themselves of this right.

Brookings residents testifying for the appellants were Milton L. DeMartin, John D. Gardner, Andy Potocnick, and L. G. Stafford. Testifying for the defendant were Elmer Bankus, who stated he believed the assessment roll to be fair and just, and Charles Echols in his capacity as county engineer.

During the trial of the case, Mr. Schott, state tax commission engineer was seized with a severe heart attack and is at present at the Gold Beach hospital, in a serious condition.

The state tax commission was represented by its attorney, Nathan Cohen of Salem, and Hugh Gearin, district attorney for Curry county, represented the county while Ed F. Ackley, Brookings attorney, represented the appellants.

Croft Memorial Placed On Site

A monument, in memory of Sydney Croft, originator of the Croft Easter lily, was brought from Eureka last week and was placed on the cement base, ready for it.

The monument is of Minnesota red granite, placed on a base of Oregon white granite, and has been placed in the corner of the field where the Croft lilies were first distributed after Mr. Croft became ill and had to give up growing of the bulbs himself.

The site is about a mile south of Harbor, and is on the left hand side of the highway, when headed south. It is planned to widen the highway at this point and to rock up the bank. Plans for the formal dedication of the monument are being made.
