The driver of this car was killed because he was driving "too fast for conditions." Rounding a curve on damp, slippery pavement, his machine skidded off the road and rolled over and over down the side of a steep embankment; finally came to rest right-side-up with the driver crushed in the wreckage. Stated speed limits apply only to average conditions, and a safe speed at ordinary times can be a very dangerous speed in bad weather. The law has a right to expect motorists to drive below stated speed limits when special conditions demand it.

Pamphlet Contains Laws Affecting Oregon Vets

SALEM—Twenty new laws affecting war veterans, passed in the recent session of the Oregon legislature, have been published in pamphlet form and will be ready for distribution some time this week to interested organizations and individuals, W. F. Gaarenstroom, newly appointed state director of veterans' affairs said early this week.

The pamphlet, 5000 of them, are titled "Supplement to Veterans' laws of the State of Oregon." They are available, free, at the Salem office of the veterans department in the state library building, or at the Portland office at 416 SW 11th Ave.

Most important of the new laws are amendments to the state veterans' loan act for the purchase of farms and homes, which provides a $6000 maximum loan, and to the state education aid act which gives Oregon veterans not already studying under the GI bill a maximum of $35 a month up to 36 months while studying in academic or vocational schools.

Another act included in the pamphlet is an amendment to the state apprenticeship law to provide war veterans representation on both state and local apprenticeship councils.

New Administrator Is Heading Vets' Affairs

PORTLAND—W. F. Gaarenstroom if this city was sworn in last week as director of the Oregon department of veterans' affairs, succeeding George E. Sanday, who resigned because of poor health.

Gaarenstroom, age 32, has been assistant director of the department since its inception in 1945, serving as head of the Portland office of the agency. Before that time he was executive secretary of the Oregon War Veterans' Service committee, established in 1943 by the state legislature and abolished two years later when the department of veterans' affairs was created.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Woody and daughters returned from a vacation at Santa Rosa, and Alturas, Calif., Monday night. Mrs. Regina Haggerty was in charge of the Woody cabins while they were away.
