the Weideeman home from last Thursday until Monday. Steve Ettinger Ronald Synder and Carl Kinion, playing on the beach near Harris Park yesterday, caused some anxiety among city folks. In a boat, with no oars visible, they were bucking the surf when word was sent to town, saying three boys were in distress, and were unable to make it to shore. When help did arrive, it was a joke on someone—and those who went out hate to admit the joke was on them.

Due to the physical inability to aid all the growers who come to me for help, I will take this means of conveying the truth about lily prices and business. There may or may not be a big surplus, we can't tell until digging time. Only a certain number of bulbs will be sold regardless of price. The co-op had a legal right to set a price. They set it at 10c, 20c, 25c and 30c, and all reliable growers hold firmly to these.

A reliable grower is one who cares about what lily business means to property values of this community, and intends to try to fit in without upsetting the business. He sticks to the set price; he strives to produce quality; he sells through the regular dealer channels; he takes care of his surplus without upsetting the business and causing his community to lose thousands of dollars which are needed to keep other businesses alive.

Within the last few days there have been four dealers here. It is their hope that the market will remain stable — one price only. But in the words of one: "If you folks are going to let unscrupulous buyers pull you down, I'm going to have mine at 7½c, too!"

If any lily grower in this community sells his bulbs for less than:

7s to 8s 10c
8s to 9s 20c
9s to 10s 25c
10s up, 30c

it is his own fault, and he hurts not only himself but this whole country as well. Refuse to let anyone "beat you" down for the sake of your community. — Mrs. May Stafford.
