Dana Is Urged For Governor

Marshal Dana, editorial page editor of the Oregon Journal, is being talked as candidate for governor of Oregon by Democrats all over the state, and as the Pilot observes, there could not be a more likely candidate, on either party ticket, who will meet the desires of a majority in Oregon.

His more than a quarter-century experience as writer on the Portland daily puts him in a position to know, first-hand, all the problems of Oregon, and no doubt a likely solution. He has seen regimes of many governors in his years, and he naturally has also seen any mistakes which might have been committed.

Dana's education background should meet every requirement of even the most critical. Certainly his experiences should qualify him as master of most any problem.

Dana's education background should meet every requirement of connections of the past. He has never been linked in any way with politics other than in his capacity as editorial writer. In this he has always been analytical and critical. This will mean much for a governor to have in his favor, in times like this nation faces.

Money isn't any object in Dana's life. These years he has been employed, he has been provident for his old age. He has a home in Curry county to where he likely will retire. Curry county already has accepted him as a citizen of the area, although he spends only his vacations and a few week-ends here.

Dana's political strength will lie, if he can be forced or persuaded to lend his name to the ticket, in the esteem he is generally held over the state. This is true of both capital and labor; of church members and those not so connected. Farmers and business men alike listen to his reasoning. In fact he mingles well with people in any walk of life.

Chub Howe's Orchestra will furnish the music.

These games, from advance dope, promise to be really close. The Ramrods defeated Smith River last Thursday night on the local floor, and the high school pitted against that aggregation, should be a dandy.

The Ramrods meet an unknown quantity in Klamath, but from talk around, this bunch always makes a game of any sport they enter. The dance promises to meet any requirement.

Garden Club Holds Anniversary Party

The Azalea Garden club celebrated an anniversary on January 7 at a regular meeting. Honored guests at the affair were the following charter members of the club: Mrs. A. H. Newton, Mrs. A. E. Stonehouse, Mrs. Verna Asche, Mrs. Hibbard, Mrs. C. W. Judkins, Mrs. Hazel Hendry, Mrs. Mae Powell, Mrs. Walter Pearmine, Mrs. B. E. Kerns, Mrs. L. R. Harvey, Mrs. Sidney Abbott, Mrs. A. A. Johnson, Mrs. J. A. Steen, Mrs. Maude Sandbo, Mrs. E. E. Hanscam and Mrs. Mina Christiansen. These members were given cheerful and colorful corsages which were made by Mrs. Stonehouse.

Larry Pinson gave an extremely interesting talk concerning the care of azaleas. Though his interest centers around the dwarf type azalea, he spoke extensively on all types. He stressed proper drainage, correct fertilization and pruning. Mr. Pinson also answered questions the club members asked after he finished his talk.

The garden club has planned to send a package of vegetable seeds to the hunger stricken peoples of Europe. It is hoped that the person to whom these seeds are sent, will see that they are distributed and planted. These seeds are to be donated by club members.

After the business meeting, the group enjoyed birthday cake, tea and coffee. The cake, which was a delicious creation of fluffy white frosting and pink rose buds tipped with lace, was cut by Mrs. Newton and Mrs. Asche who were charter president and secretary, respectively.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Grayshel, Mrs. Griffen, Mrs. Knutson and Mrs. Merle Hanscam.

Serving on committees for the affair were Mrs. Zenier, Mrs. Mina Christiansen, Mrs. Low, Mrs. MacKenzie, Mrs. Hardesty, Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Swan, Mrs. Stonehouse, and Mrs. Muchmore, with Mrs. Metta Hogan serving as chairman.

Three Initiated into Eastern Star Lodge

Three people, Mrs. Martha Harbin, Mrs. Edna Young and Bob Perkins, were initiated into the Satellite Chapter, O.E.S., last Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schaal and Charles Bickner were admitted into the lodge by affiliation.

A special feature of the evening was the addenda honoring Ruth, the second point of the star, presented under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Payne, with Mrs. Anna Muchmore, Mrs. Ethel Frazier, Mrs. Edith Low and Mrs. Ruby Harvey assisting.

With Yellow predominating, the color scheme in decorations, refreshments were served by the committee, comprised of Mrs. Iris Kindel, Mrs. Rose Hubbard and Mrs. Jewell Gott.

January 21 will be men's night. In charge of this will be Earl Templar, Charles Low, Sam Gott, Percy Hanks, Robert Swan, Bob Perkins Charles Bickner, A. E. Sandbo, A. V. Muchmore and Charles Schaal. Members of the order are invited to a 6:30 dinner served by the committee. A cordial invitation is extended by the matron and patron to all members and visiting members.
