

Dance Attracts Crowd, Saturday

Although last week's Pilot announced double victory ambulance dances for Saturday night, it was impossible to have two dances; because one musician of the Chetco Ramblers was in Portland all last week and two other members of the band had previous appointments out of town for the week-end.

The "St. Patrick Serenaders" played to a packed hall. Fifteen dozen doughnuts ran several servings short of the demand for "coffee and".

From the stage requests were made for amounts of money yet needed for the lot, and materials yet needed for the building to house the ambulance and fire truck, and also for army blankets needed for the ambulance. No pledges were received.

Schools

Eight new students have enrolled in Brookings school over the week-end. They are: Floyd and Lloyd Chandler, first grade, from Colorado; Robert and Roberta Zook, fourth grade, from Portland; Victor Harris, fourth grade, from San Francisco; Pat Zook, tenth grade, from Portland; and Robert Helms, eleventh grade, from Arkansas.

The junior class has taken over the editing of the high school paper, "Hi-Lights," while the seniors are working on their play "Hobgoblin House."

A waffle breakfast was served to young people Easter morning at 7:00 in the church basement. Mr. Campbell and Mr. Hendricks made and served the waffles, bacon and eggs. Thor Ask donated 25 lbs. of waffle flour and 1 gallon of syrup.

Marilyn Struebing left Friday for Portland where she was to meet her parents and spend the week-end.
