Some facts on telephone voice recording

When you hear a "beep"-like sound on the telephone, it means that the person with whom you are talking is recording your conversation on his own recording machine. This is in accordance with latest government regulations which permit recording machines to be connected to telephone lines, only if the "beep" signal is used to show that the conversation is being recorded.

If you do not want your conversation recorded, ask the person with whom you are talking to please disconnect his recorder.

It is now illegal to connect any recording machine to a telephone line without providing for the use of the "beep" signal over the line.
