

Voltaire's "THE NEW AGE"

"The NEW AGE—a time when Paradise is to be regained; when the processes of death and mortification are set aside and man experience absolute and complete regeneration in a spiritual-material world, not subject to natural law as conceived by the finite mind."

The implimentation of this wonderful New Age Voltaire visions and describes; is now upon the horizon and the Creator is swiftly preparing this earth for the Edenic or Paradise Regained state, which shortly will prevail as the prophecies and signs near their fulfillment.

This astounding preparation, according to scientists, is now going forward at a constantly accelerating speed as the earth adjusts itself about five degrees annually in its axis position relative to the TRUE NORTH.

Astronomers tell us there is a great open space in the heavens and in the Old Testament this is described as "The Sides of the North." Apparently God, the Creator, is reserving this for future worlds of even greater excellence, as the scriptures would indicate, and since this world is now moving toward a more favorable conjunction with this magnetic region, it may well and, reasonably, be expected to partake of an excellence in boundless vitality, and life from hitherto unknown beneficial rays of the sun and other life-giving forces this adjustment may bring about in the earth's completion of the human cycle from Paradise Lost to Paradise Regained in the restoration of Eden, this time to encompass the entire earth.

This not magic but higher science in the spiritual realms such as Christ demonstrated and enjoyed after his resurrection in a glorified body which could adjust itself to natural laws and yet not be subject to them. With the earth's adjustment to a perfect magnetic relationship, such as prevailed before Paradise was lost, will come the benefits of a perfect climate with no extremes and beneficial rays (now a source of feverish study and activity by scientists) will invigorate all creation and cause the Tree of Life, spoken of in the third chapter of Genesis, to once more blossom forth and be available for life-giving food and according to Revelations 22, even, the leaves of the trees will have healing power for all the nations of the earth. The processes of death and mortification and fermentation will no longer be possible, thus accomplishing through the divine forces of nature what blue laws never could accomplish because of the perverseness of human nature.

If all this seems grotesque, try to think of something that isn't in this day of transportation and communication as man already (to thinking minds) borders on the infinite in these realms. Radio and television are strangely akin to the attributes of the infinite and as all things must be considered in the light of relativity, man induction into the next age or New Age is progressing by degrees as he should not stumble at so natural a thing as Paradise Regained much in the manner we have described. Christ went about the performing of his miracles in a calm and natural manner, for he had no desire to mystify by "hocus-pocus" and had no need to, as they were the result of his knowledge and knowledge, of course, is power.

He understood the sciences and alchemy of the Infinite so that he could change one element into another as demonstrated in the changing of water into wine. He also could have turned stones into bread, had he wished to make a vain show to Satan at the time of the temptation, just as he multiplied the bread and fishes to feed the multitudes by his infinite knowledge of alchemy, or higher science in the realm of the infinite.

During the Millennium we are told the reaper will follow the sower and that the trees will bear their life-giving fruit every month in the year.

Thus, with the implimentation now upon the horizon, Voltaire's vision of a New Age, worthy of the name, begins to take shape and the means of its realization is beautifully and wonderfully apparent to men of faith and vision, who will but rise from the clods and set their eyes toward the dawn as "the Son of Righteousness arises with healing on his wings."

These things are for people who reason and think and we all can, in our several capacities, if we but WILL. Others do not much count in the great drama of life.

We, thus bid these series adieu as Voltaire accepts the Sermon on the Mount, gladly, and acclaims Jesus in tributes which could hardly be matched from the pages of saintly ecstasy. — John LeRoy Johnson.
