

SPORTSMEN'S CORNER

Gun Club Doings—

The big news this week is the dance, to be held at Chetco Grange Saturday Oct. 30. Chairman Carl has all the members of the committee doing overtime on various assignments. When they give up their time from to serve on the dance committees we are well advised to go to be quite a wing. So anyone missing this big excellent fodder for the artist's mill—just another saving he should have his examined.

Gossip—

Miller, who only recently became a resident of this as well as a member of the Gun Club, hooked his salmon Monday at the mouth of Chetco. According to witnesses the fish was better than a pounder and proved to be due to the excitement and lack of experience in handling these fightin' fish. If his fellow Rod and Gunners know Miller, he won't quit until he's hooked one of comparable size, landed it, had his picture taken and hung his prize safely in his big smokehouse.

Another "first" occurred Sunday when Geo. Cummins, whose wife is the present jack-salmon champ, landed a nice, bright 18-pounder at the mouth of Jack's Creek on the Chetco.

The salmon seem to be playing no favorites this past week with nearly every fisherman reporting success. Howard James looks like the champ for the week with five salmon ranging in weight from 20 to 32 pounds, while his son and daughter each took one.

Guy Shrader caught two nice ones from the shore at the mouth of the Chetco. Carl Knutsen, builder of most of the fine boats seen on the river, took three last Sunday, while Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blachley repeated last week's success with 26 and 28-pounders, with Mrs. Blachley taking the larger fish—again!

And just to be sure that we have variety in our diet, Archie McVay caught eight burlap sacks full of smelt Monday which he distributed throughout the area.

News of a couple who have been hiding their light under a bushel—or rather, under a load of salmon, came to our attention in the persons of our talented commercial artist, Debbie Frazier, and her husband, Jim. They have, very quietly and without fanfare, taken seven salmon so far this season, ranging in weight from 18 to 34 1/4 pounds. Jim took the largest, and Debbie caught the first one which, incidentally, was her first salmon. Once you hook one of those guys, you've got the fever—funny, ain't it?

Liar's Club—

Archie McVay is a new member with tops for the year—if you can believe the scales at Hanscam's store—47 pounds and bright as a dollar! Glenn Moore gains membership with a beautiful 30-pounder. And Dr. Schmitt put aside his little black bottles long enough to weigh in with a dandy, fat 25-pounder. Rumor has it that the good doctor anesthetizes the fish before removing the hook.

A Feller Sez—

Alla does not deduct from the the allotted time of man those hours spent in fishing.
