

ACA Meetings To Be Held In County

Annual meeting of the northern community, Curry County agricultural conservation association, will be held at the Sixes Grange hall, Dec. 8, according to Charles Fox, member of the county committee. He also announces that the Grange ladies will serve the noon luncheon, as usual, this year. The election will be held at 11 a. m. instead of immediately following luncheon as this time may be more convenient to many of the farmers who would like to return and put in a full afternoon at the farm.

Raymond Capps, Sixes, is the chairman of the community committee and will have charge of the election. There will also be some discussion on the national handbook and the recommended practices to be included in the Curry county handbook. Committeemen during the past year:

Raymond Capps, Sixes; J. R. Yoakum, Langlois; Joe Nilsen, Langlois; P. G. Sweet, Sixes.

Farmers who have completed their 1948 program will file their reports of performance and sign their application for payment during the remainder of the day. Committeemen will be available for taking reports from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m.

Similar meetings will be held at Harbor and Gold Beach on December 6 and 7.

Many Present At Church "Dinner"

"In excess of 100 people" were reported present at the Baptist Community church dinner, held at the church basement at 4 p. m. Sunday, when the church furnished the meat dish and those present brought a covered dish each.

Following the dinner a program of music and talks was furnished by the young people of the church.

Every Tuesday noon, Rotary Club, at Vincent's Restaurant. All visiting Rotarians are welcome.
