

Port Orford Unable To Reach Here For Game, Last Friday

Due to the heavy snows which fell that day, blocking much of the traffic to the north of Brookings, Port Orford high school was unable to reach here with her basketball and volleyball teams Friday. Lynn Hampton told the Pilot Tuesday that he was trying to arrange a later date for the game, possibly two weeks hence, on the week Brookings draws a bye in the schedule.

"We don't want Port Orford, because of her inability to reach here, to forfeit the game. If she can arrange to play her game against Ophir on some week-night, our bye date would be a good time to make up the cancellation.

Fans turning out that night, however, were not entirely disappointed, for the Ramrods, the Rod and Gun Club team, played the high school in one of the most exciting games of the season, with the Ramrods emerging victors in overtime, 54-53.

Gold Beach Here Friday Night

Gold Beach, third in the league standings and one who want to upset dope-buckets, as well as Brookings, will appear on the local floor Friday evening in the second meeting of the two teams.

Brookings handed Gold Beach a whipping in their previous engagement, but was extended to the limit to accomplish the feat.

Those holding reserve tickets for the Port Orford game, may either have their money back, or will have them honored at the Gold Beach game, Friday, Lynn Hampton told the Pilot, Wednesday.

Curry Hospital Is Still Lacking Quota For Federal Grant

GOLD BEACH—Application for a federal hospital grant must be made before June 1. This advice was given by George Schiffer, of the state board of health, who gave an interesting address at the first annual meeting of Curry County Hospital Association, last week. Before the formal application can be made, the local group must give the assurance that funds are available.

Curry and Wallowa counties were given top priority for a grant. Wallowa raised its local contribution and already has filed application, according to Mr. Schiffer. He warned that Curry county may lose the opportunity even though it may have the job almost done, by failing to raise the remaining $20,000 by popular subscription.

The finance committee report, presented by Joe Omlin, showed that $30,000 had been raised, but that $10,000 of this includes the land, supplies, equipment and materials, and cannot be included in the $50,000 to be raised by subscriptions according to Mr. Schiffer.

Directors elected include: Mrs. George Mateer, Henry Adolphsen, Ruth Bathiany, Joe Omlin, and Mrs. Viola Ramalia.

Can't We Help?

A little girl who was once so glad—

A pride of her mother, and a joy o her dad.

With large brown eyes and curly locks

And a sweet disposition had.

But a large round tear dimmed her big brown eyes,

It made them feel so sad—

For a tragic fate in her life had come

That many children have.

While the dear little one lay quietly there—

"T'was Polio," so they said.

I know a poor unfortunate boy

Whose name is Jimmy Day;

And there's a sad little crippled girl,

Her name is Susan May—

And when I go that way to work

And pass her window by,

I see that child in a small wheel chair

Sadly gazing at the sky.

If we'd help the "Crusade for Children—"

And the "March of Dimes" in this fair and.

In such great and worthy movements—

This Great World would understand.

And to try to help the children

In U. S. A. and across the sea

And stamp out such terrible evils

So once more they can happy be.

Perhaps in the future, if we all do help

With out love and sympathy and giving, too,

We can make it possible for such little ones

To gaze from their windows on sunny days,

Not with saddened hearts nor dewy eyes,

But with gaddened hearts and spirits high—

And to chase the lovely butterflies

Underneath the summer's balmy skies.

Then they'll play on the hill-sides once again—

And their anguished sighs chance to happy cries;

They shall gather sweet flowers in wood-lands glen,

Or climb to their hillside homes, on high.

No more through their windows will they have to gaze

With saddened hearts or dewy eyes,

But just like after storms on rainy days

When the lovely rainbow decks they sky.

And we all can hereby change their lives,

If we do but help and try.
