BRUINS LOSE TWO GAMES IN DIST. TOURNAMENT

Both Losses Were By Close Margin of A Single Basket

Tournament Standings

Team	W	L	Pct.
Drain	2	0	1.000
Riddle	1	1	.500
Powers (3rd)	1	1	.500
Brookings	0	2	.000

Game Results

Friday Night—
 Brookings, 42; Drain, 44.
 Riddle, 40; Powers, 38.
 Saturday's Games—
 Brookings, 39; Powers, 41.
 Drain, 42; Riddle, 38.

The district tournament, held at Coos Bay last Friday and Saturday, was considered one of the most closely contested ever to be held in the state. Attesting the fact is a glimpse at the scores, with exception of the final game of the tournament, all games were decided by a single basket.

In the first tournament game Drain came from behind to take the first round from Brookings, 44 to 42, in a thriller; Brookings lost the chance to come away with third place by the same margin.

Architect Visits Here

Mr. Freeman of the firm of Freeman & Haislip, architects of Portland, was a visitor in this area, Sunday, conferring with the contractors of the local schools and members of the school board. The grade school work, held up by rainy weather, is almost in shape for pouring of concrete. A lot of the truss work for the building has been done.

Jimmy Vincent Has Rich Experience To Tell Friends About

Jimmy Vincent, who returned home last Thursday morning after a two-weeks trip east to represent Region 11, of Boy Scouts of America, finds that he has a big problem on hand—he can't get all told in the time he is to be allotted on any specific occasion—there are too many experiences—each quite important—to tell.

If asked about any particular sight or place which may have made the biggest impression, it is likely Jimmy would start to tell about one thing, then he'd switch to another—finally winding up by saying: "I don't know." He was impressed by his meeting with Congressman Ellsworth, Senators Cordon and Morse, and their secretaries. He was given a thrill in his meeting with the president, who Jimmy thinks is a "regular" fellow.

The trip through the Pentagon building, when all photographers, except army and navy, were excluded, made a lasting impression. High brass of the different branches of service were eager to show the boys around. Jimmy finds that this trip and the honor which accompanies it has cascaded him into the center of attraction, for his many acquaintances wish to know about his enjoyment.

New York was a thrill to the boys—and they were royally entertained at Radio City, and at other important spots in that metropolis. Of real thrill, too, was the meeting of the boys with Jack Dempsey, in his famous restaurant, and how he served the boys cokes, and was photographed in the group.

Jimmy has himself pretty well fortified with pictures and souvenirs to help him tell the story. He goes under the assumption that a picture will tell more than a thousand words. Jimmy was met at Los Angeles by his parents, who made that trip for this occasion. On their return to Brookings they stopped off at several coastal points.

Joe Endert Tells Rotarians Stories Of Indians In Del Norte County In 1890s

Joe Endert, a native of Crescent City, whose 71 years have accumulated many stories of the old time history, especially of the Indians, spoke at Brookings Rotary luncheon, Tuesday.

Mr. Endert, Del Norte county welfare director, told of the location of the old family home, which, in those days, was across the street from a large corral, used for the many pack mules, which were loaded out each day for the mines of the area, as far away as Jacksonville.

Mr. Endert gave some local color about the packers of the early days, most of whom were Indians or half-breeds. He said they were a rough lot, and their language was still rougher. A few of the packers, however, as were the miners, were Chinese.

An event of Mr. Endert's youth was the time that all Chinese were driven from Del Norte in a general round-up. His father was connected with the sheriff's office at the time.

Made Study of Indians

All his historical recollections were only preface remarks to his story of the Indians of this region, the subject of his talk. Klamath Indians, he said, were descendents of the Apache tribes which came northward for conquest, and some settling on the Klamath River. Northern coastal Indians, claimed the speaker, descended from the Asiatic tribes which settled the coast in the early days, perhaps before the time of Columbus.

To prove his point, Mr. Endert compared physical difference of various tribes, their language and many habits.

Klamath Indians never came more than 25 miles or so north of the Klamath River, and the Smith River Indians, as well as Oregon coast Indians never migrated southward.

Indian religion, said the speaker, was surprisingly parallel to Christianity. The hereafter, ac-

ording to the Klamath belief, was a place comparable to heaven mentioned in the Bible, but the Indian went there solely on his earthly actions.

A basket, woven by a Klamath Indian woman, and a headpiece, used in the "harvest" dance, were displayed. The half hour allotted the speaker, proved only too brief, and he promised to return within a month or so to complete.

Bradley Page New Member

Bradley Page became a member of the club. Merle Hanscam was a guest.

Will Hear Of Scout Trip

Jimmy Vincent is scheduled to tell at least a portion of his experiences and impressions of his recent trip to the east, at the next meeting.

Saw Cold Weather On Trip To Midwest

Mrs. C. H. Barnes, daughter, Miriam Norton and granddaughter, Diane, returned last Wednesday evening after two and a half months spent in the midwest. Mrs. Barnes told the Pilot she had seen enough cold weather to suit her for years.

Included on the trip to visit relatives the trio went to Indiana, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Kansas. She spent some time at the home of her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Hogue, at Ambie, Ind.

Stork Bring Girls — Three In A Row

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lindsley are beginning to think the old stork is very fond of girls as he has delivered three granddaughters to them in the past six weeks. The girls are Linda Rose Ann (Caparoon), Barbara Jo Ann (Ruess), and Patricia Ann (Lindsley). Boys should be remembered by the stork in all future visits.

Parent-Teachers Plan March Meeting At School Tonight; Health Is Subject

March meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association will be held tonight at the school. The program will be in charge of the president, Mrs. Archie Hendricks, and Mrs. Henry whose students will furnish the entertainment.

Health of the student will be discussed by Dr. J. E. Stevenson and Mrs. Watt, school nurse.

$1431.08 RAISED IN COUNTY FOR DIMES CAMPAIGN

$512.96 Raised In Brookings And Harbor Vicinity

GOLD BEACH—Final results in the 1949 March of Dimes campaign show that a total of $1431.08 was collected in Curry county, according to John Porisch, the county chairman.

Net returns exceed the total raised in the last year's campaign, by $32.72. Despite the fact that sawmills and woods operations are generally shut down; that ranchers have suffered loss of stock and feeding costs have been greatly increased; and that building and business activity has generally been curtailed, Curry county's contribution came within a few dollars of equalling the record contribution of the year of 1947. The per capita contribution is again expected to exceed that of neighboring Coos and Josephine counties after final count.

Contributions turned in by the community chairmen were:

Mrs. Doris Freeman
Brookings	$ 450.91
Mrs. Henry Briggs,
Gold Beach	400.63
Mrs. Lyle Cross, Port
Orford	184.88
Mrs. Pauline Anderson,
