Riverman & Sons, contractors at work on the new grade school building, already have the framework standing, and much of the sheeting, showing rapid progress toward completion before the beginning of school in September. The annex to the high school building, in charge of Roy Weiman, is almost completed, and is expected to be done shortly. This portion of the contract includes lockers and dressing rooms for both girls and boys, and is erected at the rear of the old building. The grade school building includes five more rooms, and the central heating plant for the entire school.

Redwood Barber Shop Leased To Portlander

Redwood Barber Shop, closed since November after the death of Henry Leming, has been leased to Jim Winder, a Portland barber of many years experience. Opening will be about the first of May, he told the Pilot, for it will be that time before he can get possession of the home he has rented.

Accompanied here by Mrs. Winder, the new lessee said they long had wanted to come to this area, and were glad of this opportunity. They have no children.

Sunday School Sets Record, Sunday

With a goal of 150 set by Baptist Community church Sunday school, by Easter, was realized, Sunday, when 151 were present. Since coming to Brookings, both Rev. and Mrs. Nick Neufeld have emphasized their work with the youth of the community. This achievement gave them inspiration to set a goal of 200 attendants of Sunday school by Christmas time.

"This goal," said Rev. Neufeld Sunday evening, "was accomplished by a united effort on the part of all church members. It is indeed gratifying to any minister to see such results."

Threatening weather at 6:30 a. m. kept attendance at the proposed Sunrise service, at Azalea State Park, to a small crowd. The heavy fog of early morning soon lifted and at the scheduled time the service went on despite the lack of sunshine.

Many Attend Play Given, Sunday Eve

"The Challenge of the Cross" was given by the young people of Baptist Community church, Sunday evening, with a fair-sized audience present.

Mrs. Neufeld, taking the part of Evangel, called for people to take up God's work, and there came from the crowd six young ladies, who volunteered for the work.

The first five were particular about the size and shape of the "cross" each was expected to bear, until the sixth, who accepted "her cross" although it was ungainly and very heavy.

The first disciple was placed by Shirley Kerr, the second by Pauline Hendricks, third by Jean Gott, fourth by Betti Goldizen and fifth by Mary Ann Biddle. The one to accept her cross whatever it be, was JoAnn Poore.

Background music on the violin was played by Mrs. G. P. Christensen, solo, "The Old Rugged Cross," by Mrs. Emil Moore, accompanied by Mrs. Bert DeMoss at the piano.

In The Mail-box:

Editor, Pilot: For several days now the board of directors of the Brookings Chamber of Commerce has had a letter stating my position. In it I say I am sincerely sorry for my part of the controversy.

But please don't let us lose sight of our objective—a modern highway across the 29 miles between U. S. Hwy 199 and tide-water.

Too much has already been done on this project, possibly there is little more to do before we would all have it available, and too great an advantage to so many to now drop it. I am sure we are all agreed on that. Faithfully, M. S. Brainard.
