Poppy Sale Planned By Legion Auxiliary For Next Saturday

American Legion-veteran made poppies will be sold all day, Saturday, May 21. This, say Legion Auxiliary members, is the public's opportunity to pay homage to the dead of both world wars, by helping the disabled.

These little red poppies, the symbol of soldier-sacrifice, are made throughout the year, in all veterans hospitals in the United States by disabled veterans. They are made entirely by hand and the veteran is paid for each poppy he makes.

On Poppy Day these are sold on the streets and proceeds of the sale is used for relief among the suffering ex-service men and their families.

There is no finer cause, it has often been pointed out. Everyone is urged to give freely. Since the veterans have done their share, it makes this our chance to do our little bit.

Along Azalea Row

Everyone counting the days — too few of them—before the opening of the Azalea Festival and Flower Show, and all busier than Dutch broom in a fit.

Enthusiasm is running high, everyone is at high tension, the usual excitement preceding a successful endeavor. This year there will be a tea given in connection with the flower show.

Lillian Weideman and her committee, starting from scratch, sets up housekeeping for this event. Erma Rice, club president, keeps the wires hot in an endeavor to get exact schedules on our guests-to-be, the National Council delegates from 41 states. The Azalea Singers, preparing their program for the flower show—the art committee, running here and there looking "long-haired and arty"—and Dorothy Lockland, the flower show chairman, perhaps wishing that she had an extra pair of hands, eyes and a set of wings or just a bicycle or a pair of roller skates.

All this adds up to a bang-up show!

The favors requested by the state federation for one of the banquets of the national convention in Portland, presented a big problem. They asked for lily bulbs but this was impossible at this time of the year. However, out of a hat Alice Perkins got an idea and the committee under Mrs. Vic Reynolds went to work—Martha Harbin, Martha Gray-shel, Mrs. Will Crissey and of course, Alice Perkins. This is to report that with their lovely individual arrangements of beach flora this committee did us proud.

In the art exhibit will be some notable new work this year. All works or pictures to be submitted to the exhibit should reach the committee at the high school gymnasium before five o'clock, Friday afternoon. Members of the committee to whom pictures may be delivered: Rose Baumgarten, Dorothy Harroun and Olive Page.
