Pelicans Presented Crescent City Five Unearned Runs, and A Game, Sunday

By presenting Crescent City Merchants four un-earned runs in the second and another in the third, Brookings Pelicans came to a sudden halt of their long winning streak which had lasted for twelve games. The two teams hit on a par, with eight each.

Westbrook started on the hill for the Pelicans. In the first inning only three faced him. The first two men in the second were given passes to first. A dropped fly in centerfield allowed two to score. Westbrook threw over third when another batter hit to him, and two more scored. With a five-run lead, Crescent City had no particular trouble in coming out winner, 7 to 3.

Brookings, in their half of the second, got Hanscam on base by an error on the shortstop. He advanced on Desjardin's sacrifice, and scored on Eagle's hit. Salvage's first single scored him.

Crescent City scored an un-earned run in the second when DeAutremont hit for single, advanced on a passed ball and came in when right field dropped a fly ball, the third out.

Salvage relieved Westbrook in the second inning, after one was out and fire had crossed the plate. He pitched to two batters and put out the fire. From then on, Crescent City was able to collect but four scattered hits, and one run, which came in the eighth, on DeAutremont's single, steal of second and scored on Clausen's single.

Brookings tallied their final run in the sixth when Hanscam singled over second, stole second and came in on Eagle's second run-producing single.

The second game of the series will be played at Crescent City next Sunday, when Manager Pete Lesmeister hopes no lapses of memory will be committed. The box score:

Ry. Express Office Need To Be Studied For Local Vicinity

Officials of American Railway Express Company, according to Dave Franklin, owner of Coast Freight Lines (formerly Central Transfer) will be in this area shortly after Sept. 10 to investigate possibilities of establishing an agency for that company.

Mr. Franklin had recently returned from a business trip to San Francisco, where he interviewed the officials. They promised him to give the matter full investigation and consideration.

Bulb Freight Rates Reduced.

Another service to this community, announced by Mr. Franklin on his visit here late last week, was announcement of a deduction of 40c per hundred on bulb shipments. This will affect almost everyone in the community in one way or another, he told the Pilot.

Southern Curry To Really Exhibit At Fair Sept. 2 to 4

After several weeks of being almost frantic for fear that the "south end of the county" would forget, fair board members early in week are smiling knowingly.

It seems that interest has been aroused, and the interest seems to be beyond hopes, to say nothing of expectations. Really, a number of exhibits are being prepared for entrance in the Curry county fair which opens Friday at Gold Beach.

Mrs. Joe Bush is smirking to herself, for she promises to have a display for the area, which is planned to show a cross-section of the area's industries and potential industries.

Individual displays have and are being prepared. These will include many types of entries, from sewing to canning, cooking, and such. Agriculture is going to be on display, it has been said.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Royer of Culver City, Calif., are visiting friends in this area for a few days. They are former well-known residents.

Local Jeweler Offers Real Watch Bargain

N. M. Jones, local jeweler, told the Pilot, Monday, that he had been able to make an unusually opportune purchase of watches, so that he will be able to sell a water-proof, shock resisting wrist watches which he will be able to sell for about half price compared to many large jewelry houses in the east and midwest.

In another column of this issue he has a message telling of this purchase.

County Exhibit Is Booked For Fairs

Nat Perkins, prominent Port Orford farmer, and member of Curry county fair board, left on Wednesday for Salem to arrange the Curry county booth at the state fair.

The booth, 9x16 in size, will have a background of yellow suede type paper, on which wool will be so placed to give the effect of a spider web. A wool fleece will be the centerpiece.

Featured in the booth will be products for which Curry county is famous, including bulbs of various kinds, myrtlewoods, cheese and some lumber products.

While Mr. Perkins is away, arranging for the booth, he has appealed to any Curry county resident for any exhibit which might add to the county booth.

This same booth will be taken to Pacific International at Portland later.

Rotarians Officially Seat New Officers, Tuesday Evening

Brookings Rotarians, and guests for the evening, were given royal entertainment, Tuesday night at the annual ladies night, when officers were officially seated for the coming year. Roy Weideman, retiring president, was presented a past-president's pin, and in his report to the club, said he was grateful to the committee heads which had made his year at the helm as successful as it was.

Served turkey dinner with all the trimmings at Vincent's Restaurant, the guests sang parades to a number of old time favorite songs, with the men singing one verse, which was answered by the ladies. A male quartet favored the group with several selections, unaccompanied on the piano.

A demonstration of the resuscitator, and review of its uses for most any emergency, was made before the group. For excuses, plausible and some not so plausible, members were "fined" to raise money toward the purchase price. It is reported that about $30 were realized.

Following the dinner those who wished, danced in the Shadow Room.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pratt and three children of Klamath Falls are spending this week at the home of Mrs. Pratt's sister and family, Mrs. Everett Reekman.

Resuscitator Gains In Favor Among Groups In Vicinity

Progress toward financing the purchase of the resuscitator, by be placed here in the community, is reported making great strides. Brought here by the Rotary club, which is trying to sponsor the purchase, already the American Legion has signified intention of being "good for a sum," while others, who originally helped to buy the ambulance, are ready to add to the contribution.

This apparatus, costing almost $700, will be able to care for two patients at the same time. With plenty of adjuncts in way of addition equipment, reviving work may be carried on as far as 60 feet away, in a well, or under a buildings, or any place where the apparatus cannot be taken.

This apparatus does not revive a person by mechanical means, as is seen through artificial respiration. Instead, it is done by forcing pure oxygen into the patient's lungs, direct from the tanks carrying this element.

The apparatus may be used, also, for relieving the lungs and throat of water, or mucous, not possible by any other method.

This apparatus, slightly larger than a suitcase, weighs but a mere 75 pounds with four cylinders of oxygen. It may be carried any place with little difficulty, and may be used for cases involving electric shock, heart attack, asphixia, drowning, or in cases where oxygen is required.

Within the next few weeks, if not earlier, this will be demonstrated to every organization in the area, with an idea of each being able to raise its proportionate share toward the purchase price.

"Flower Girls"

The summer tour of the 4-H Flower Girls gardens followed a gay picnic at Harris Park beach, last Thursday. It was the first party of the summer and the girls had lots of news to exchange. Then too, they were entertaining 3 special 4-H guests: R. M. Knox, county agent; Miss Dorothy Newton, the attractive home extension agent and Mrs. Aldene Aho, retiring home extension agent, who has been such a loyal and helpful friend of the girls. Besides the leaders, Mrs. Dorothy Lockland, and Mrs. Polly Clendenin, eight 4-H girls made up the party.

Unfortunately the two Vaughan girls, Nellie and Vanda had an accident and were unable to attend. Flowers were collected from each garden visited.

"Get-well notes" were attached and the large bouquet was delivered to the Vaughan home.

The guests expressed pleasure and surprise in the beautiful gardens the girls have planted and cared for during the dry summer.

The Flower Girls are planning an exhibit of their flowers at the Curry County Fair, the highlight of their year's work.

REGISTRATION AT SCHOOL SHOWS INCREASE, TUES.

New Courses Have Been Added To Curriculum

Registration, Monday afternoon was light with 21 freshmen and 17 seniors signing up. However, several additional students have indicated that they would be on hand when school is ready to start on Monday, Sept. 12.

Registration for the primary grades was also light, with 26 beginners, and 21 second graders. However, Mrs. DeMoss and Mrs. Carter counted up 36 second-graders and 31 beginners by a check of their last year's roll, with the individuals remaining in Brookings.

The plan this year is to house the first seven grades in the new elementary building, and the 8th grade and high school in the high school building.

This summer several improvements have been added to the high school building. The new physical education shower unit has been completed, heat has been installed in the gym, 60 additional lockers have been provided, home economics "unit kitchens" have been delivered to the school and are being installed with cabinet work and electric ranges.

In line with the improvements in the school plant, the high school curriculum has been enlarged, with the additional subjects of journalism, higher mathematics, drawing, home economics, and shorthand being added. Spanish 1 and bookkeeping being repeated on alternation.

The new home economics instructor, Miss Stewart, comes to Brookings, well trained and recommended, with a major in home economics in Indiana Teachers College, and experience in Wiskah Valley Union High school near Aberdeen, and in Shanksville, Pa.

Additional new teachers to the school this year are Mrs. Morris, elementary music, high school chorus; and Miss Gayl Freel of Spearfish, S. Dak., third grade.

Art Wridge Injured By Explosion On Tuesday

Art, an elder son of William Wright, who is in partnership with his brother, Virgil, in logging operations near Tillamook, was seriously injured Tuesday, according to a telegram received by the father, Wednesday. The extent of his injuries, aside from being grave, are not revealed.

Another brother, residing in California, is coming this way en route to Tillamook, and Bill expects to go northward, he told the Pilot. Virg and Art are well known in this area, where they spent part of their youth.

Baptist young people enjoyed a picnic up the Chetco Tuesday evening. Mrs. Gott and Mrs. Goldizen were chaperones.
