

Local Booth Will Be Complete At Curry County Fair in Sept.

Mrs. Joe Bush informed the Pilot late last week of her plans for the booth at Curry County Fair, Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week, depicting the area and its possibilities, as well as existing industries.

This booth, under guidance of Chetco Grange, will show the lumber industry, myrtlewoods, canning of salmon, floriculture, vegetables, etc.

This, asserted Mrs. Bush, is in addition to the individual exhibits which will be furnished by people of the community, and the 4-H entries. There will be quite a number of 4-H exhibits, the Pilot has been informed.

Along Azalea Row

Come along, ladies, step into your cars, we are driving down Smith River way to see what the neighbors have been doing. It's to be a garden viewing. Meet at the Grange hall, at 1:30 Thursday, Sept. 8, Azalea Garden Club regular meeting day, and we shall gather for the garden tour.

Transportation will be available for everyone, car doors will open and room made to tuck all of you in. Our able program chairman, Mrs. Irma Rice, and her capable co-worker, Mrs. Myrtle Hibbard, have planned a delightful pilgrimage to six Smith River Gardens, each outstanding in some particular way. We shall visit Mrs. Kenneth Layman, Mrs. Agnes Maris, Mrs. Robert and Mrs. Chester Maris, Mrs. Spooner, Mrs. Grace Haight and Mrs. Forrest Dunham.

Mrs. Kenneth Layman's home lies on the old highway on a hillside with a sweeping view of Smith River valley. Her garden will delight you.

Mrs. Mabel Maris needs no introduction to garden club members and their friends. If you have heard her speak on her hobby, pompom dahlias, you will certainly want to see them. You may do so on this tour.

One of the oldest gardens in this part of the county belongs to Mrs. Agnes Maris. Here grows a ballet girl fuchsia, which is 75 years old.

Mrs. Robert Maris has a small greenhouse in operation. Mrs. Forrest Dunham's rose garden, chrysanthemums and fuchsias will be well worth viewing. No need to tell our garden club members to wear comfortable low heel shoes for walking in gardens, but may I remind you to bring pencil and paper for jotting down notes.

Good things to come, a peek into the future, our program committee is delighted that Mrs. Daniel Heffner, president of the Oregon Roadside Council, one of the incorporators of the Save the Myrtlewoods association, an authority on roadside beautification and conservation, has consented to be one of our speakers for a program later in the autumn. Beauty is money in a tourist state such as Oregon. The development and conservation of our natural resources is just common sense. Beauty is business in this area.

We walked about Brookings on Sunday afternoon and saw at least three houses having face-lifting operations. It is amazing the changes that have occurred in a year's time. We mustn't give one child a pat on the head without the other dear child as well. Anyone who has journeyed down Hwy 101 recently, and who has not, cannot but notice the improvements constantly being made in the Harbor area. We are certainly growing and are going places.

An azalea to our Martha Grayshel for her generous act in giving her prize money for the children's Hallowe'en parade, and the prizes.

Out here at Weedy Acres, we are not too serious with all this gardening business. We have to laff sometimes. I'll share a garden boner with you from time to time, if you share one with me. Send them in and let us all laff.

There is a lady who planted a beautiful border of onion sets in the flower garden under the impression she was planting lilies of the valley.

Dividend Applications At P. O. For Veterans

Application forms for G. I. s to file in order to obtain dividends on their National Service Life Insurance, are on hand at the post office, Mrs. Goldie Smith, postmaster, has informed the Pilot.

Extension ladies are reminded, not to forget the jams, jellies, pickles and relishes for the fair booth. Leave with Mrs. J. R. Yelton, by Thursday evening.

Ed F. Ackley spent the weekend at Eureka visiting Mrs. Ackley, who is employed for a few weeks by the health department at that place.

Ken Kuehl, of Clarkston, Wn., was a brief visitor in this area Monday afternoon. He is son of the Clarkston, Wash., publisher. Send the Pilot to a friend!
