Everything is very quiet on the house side of the Capitol now. Practically all of the representatives have left Washington. The house recess ends officially Sept. 21, but since that is the middle of the week nothing except routine business will be transacted until Monday, the 26th.

In a few days I will leave for Europe with members of the certain men holding high positions of public trust. Hunt has been smeared somewhat. I don't think much of his "profession" and it mitte on interstate and foreign

Task Force Moors to Polar Ice

Two ships of a Naval expedition to the Antarctic, the USS Edisto and the USS Burton Island, tie up to bay ice in the course of exploration work in the South Polar regions. The above photo was taken in the Bay of Whales. Sled and skis used in surface exploration are in the left foreground. The Navy's role in carrying the flag of the United States to the ends of the earth is exemplified in its frequent sallies into the south and north polar fastnesses. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph) commerce. Public health legislation is assigned to that committee. Hearings have already been held by the committee on the Truman socialized medicine bills. We discovered, however, that 1st hand information regarding the operation of socialized medicine in England would be vital to a really careful consideration of such legislation.

It is my intention to do considerable of what might be called private investigating when I am in England with the committee. I know the group will be given plenty of official information and that a competent report will be written on the facts and figures obtained by the committee. What I want most to know, however, can best be obtained by talking with people—doctors, working people, officials, and everyone who will spare the time for conversation. I also want to dig rather deeply into the question of finance. This subject is so extremely important that I feel a great need for every scrap of reliable information I can get.

The committee will come home by air and will arrive back in Washington the morning of the 26th of the month.

The senate committee investigation into the activities of the so-called "5 per centers" has this capitol city agog these days. It is a sordid revelation of the sort of thing that can and does go on when appointments to high places in this the greatest government in the world are made almost solely upon the basis of friendship and politics.

I think in fairness, and just to keep the record straight about this "5 per center" mess, I should point out that the center of the disturbance, a former army officer by the name of James Hunt, apparently did nothing either dishonest or illegal. All I know about it is what I read in the newspapers—and the Washington, D. C., papers are full of it—but it is pretty clear to me that Hunt has been doing nothing more or less than ordinary attorneys and lobbyists here do, and have been doing for many years. They represent clients who want to do business with the government on the most favorable basis possible. Hunt knows his way around Washington and in government circles and charged his clients a fee for using that knowledge for them. He seemed to be able to deliver fairly well because of the cupidity and low calibre of ceremony be just as well not to turn the heat on such people. However, let's not forget that the real guilt lies with those people Hunt was able to "influence."

It seems likely now that this session of congress will adjourn for the remainder of the year along about the 15th of October. I plan to get home just as soon as I can after the business of the session is completed. I still expect to be able to visit all seven of the Fourth Congressional district counties before the end of the year. Meanwhile this is the last "letter from Washington" for several weeks—and possibly for this year.

"Substances" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 11.

The golden text is "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit" (1 Cor. 2:9,10).

Among citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning" (Jas. 1:17), together with the following correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay" (page 468).
