

SPORTSMEN'S COLUMN

Bill's mad again! And this time he was really mad. Bill Wridge, that is! It seems that an enterprising salesman had sold him a lure that would really draw the salmon for a quarter of a mile, and I guess it did.

But the salmon wouldn't do anything but be attracted and when Bill had practically worn himself out casting to try and make the old man salmon catch on to it, without success, an Indian came down the river, trolling, apparently with parallel success, until he hit the spot where Bill's foxy lure had the fish spell-bound and bang! and Bill's fish was on his way into the Indian's boat. A turn down toward the mouth of the Chetco and back over the same spot and yep, you guessed it, another of Bill's fish followed the first and Bill left in disgust (that ain't the way I heard it).

Warren Smith's son and son-in-law, Dick and Gus, respectively, the former now at Long Beach and the latter a Rotarian from Everett, Wash., are giving the river a good working over with a nice 15-pounder to their credit. In fact Dad Warren was at last report so enthused at the prospect of some piscatorial sport that he was about to cast aside business, dull care, and a lot of civic activity to the winds and take a whirl at it himself.

Gardner and party caught a couple and several other singles brought in all of which shows that a few salmon are coming up the river of late. But it is agreed that a good heavy rain with a freshet in the river would help things out no end. Better results seem to be obtained in Smith River at the moment.

A very pretty sight was observed Monday and Tuesday over the northern part of Del Norte when a flight of gulls, numbering nearly a thousand, were obviously working on migration of some kind of flying bug. Nothing could be seen but the gulls for they were from two to five hundred feet in the air, but it was a magnificent display of maneuvering to watch these birds, black and white against the clear blue sky, pausing occasionally in flight to pick something out of the air.

The Rod and Gun clubhouse is now more secure against winter rains with the completion of a re-roofing job on part of the building. An active crew made the welking ring Sunday morning after the manner of the old-fashioned house-raising and tho many a novice at this type of work took a hand, the job was really good. Other crews have been at work inside and volunteers are still needed to help in several inside jobs. Jack Hogan is always on hand to direct the efforts of his helper and take a heavy part of the work himself.

Many fine contributions are coming in to help the cause of the resuscitator but more are needed. A list of the major contributions will be compiled later.

Moore Family Set Out By Home Fire

The community was shocked to hear of the home of Frank Moore and his two daughters, being destroyed by fire early last Wednesday morning. Cause of the blaze is not known, but about 2 o'clock in the morning the whole house burst into flames, making it necessary for Frank to leave through one of the bedroom windows.

The two girls were sleeping in another small building near the house and did not burn. All that was saved consisted of a few clothes. The family is now living in a small building on the Earl Carson place.

This is the second tragedy of this kind to hit the Harbor vicinity in the past few weeks, as the Claude Wright home on Jacks Creek burned a short time ago.

The Grange is giving a benefit dance this Saturday evening to help the Moore family, and everyone is urged to attend. In the past Frank has played for many benefit dances, and this a chance for reciprocity.
