

SPORTSMEN'S COLUMN

Old King Salmon is on the move, but definitely. The Rogue, the Smith and Chetco have afforded great activity and very satisfactory results for many for several days past. To enumerate all who have been able to land at least one good fish would make too long a list. Now it is more the rule to list those who catch the limit. And the tourist who has been under the direction of guides in the local area are getting value received for their guide investment.

The opening of deer season, too, has brought joy and satisfaction as well as a lot of good food for locker storage to local hunters. The first to bring in his deer was Clarence Stoller and thereafter hunters appeared in rapid succession. The Freeman party of four brought in four nice deer on a Jeep. Elmer Bankus connected with a nice one and Bob Perkins, who had been home from his trip a matter of hours, sallied forth, saw horns, straightway took on a spasm of buck-ague ill becoming the first president of the Rod and Gun club. The gun was revolving in an arc comparable with a wheel of a prairie schooner but ole lucky Bob did succeed in pulling the trigger as the wobbling gun passed the deer and it fell over in what looked like a very good shot. Don Craig and Harold Putnam brought back meat from Eastern Oregon.

A point of interest in the good clean sport of fishing and hunting is the number of young fellows who have been taking part with great success. Lee Schley, a boy of 12 or 13, hooked and landed a fine salmon and many other youngsters were on the business end of the rod rather than the receiving end of it. Lads in their later teens made fine huntsmen, too, Jackie Johnson, who was out with Ira Brown, bagged the biggest deer reported, one which dressed out 137 pounds. Ray Reekman, Cecil James, Bud Rausch, Merk Jacklewicz all were successful in bagging coast deer. Looks like a lot of good material coming up for the Rod and Gun Club.

Let's hope that all of the kids were out fishing or hunting and didn't have to see, or having seen that they got the lesson taught in the lurching walk that two olders members of society took as one helped the other, as he staggered disbustingly from one of our local taverns (saloons to you, and me) across the street to sleep off a complete 'bun' in the luxury of a nice, hard sloping floor of the discarded red truck with the cook-house body. What a satisfaction all around that must have been! A lovely siesta for the one, in out of the rain, without a worry or care, without a cent left in his pocket or a scrap of self-respect left. On the part of the second, the assistant so to speak, who thought "Mission Completed" as he boosted his companion bodily into the truck and having straightened his limbs out for the perfect snooze, went back with furtive look the while back into the co-called tavern to spend the rest of his money and equilibrium. And then the party of the third part—what a satisfaction to ring up money so gained. (We'll hope it wasn't so needed for youngsters at home). Seems almost too bad that the so-called inn-keeper didn't go hunting too, for a few years, closing up the so-called tavern the while.

Beautification Of School Grounds

assistance, on account of the nature of the project, will come from Paul DeBlock, one of the best landscapers in the state and one of the most public-minded citizens. He will lay out the complete plan and has offered to donate a very large part of his service toward the completion of this plan.

It is the intention of Mr. DeBlock to use of a great number of our beautiful native shrubs. These will need be inspected and dug under his careful supervision. Upon the organization of donated man-power, both in the digging and setting of the shrubs at the school grounds, will depend the length of time this will take and consequently the amount of his time that Mr. DeBlock will feel he may donate to this project. C. A. MacKenzie and Fay Hardesty will organize this part of the project for Mr. DeBlock.

There will be spots in the landscaping that require certain treatment to harmonize the rather classic lines of the new building and to tie it in with the older one—highlights here and there. These will be "extra special" and the community shall have to buy them—not many according to Mr. DeBlock, but they will be needed.

To co-ordinate the work of the community with that of the landscape and Azalea Garden Club, the following committee has been named to work directly with the officers of the Garden Club: Mrs. Ruth Bathiany, Mrs. Elmer Hanscam, Mrs. Lillian Weideman, Mrs. Alice Perkins, Mrs. Edith Low, Mrs. Warren Smith, Mrs. Robert Swan, and Mrs. Eunice Wolam, horticulture chairman of the Garden Club.

Advisory to this committee: Lynn Hampton, Wilson Freeman, Henry Kerr, Elmer Bankus, Will Crissey, C. A. MacKenzie, Luther Tisdale, Charles Low, Thor Ask, Dewey Akers, Mrs. Lloyd Morris and Warren Smith.

SMITH RIVER

Lake Earl Grange held its annual Booster night, program and social time, Saturday night. The program was under direction of Lecturer Eileen Peterson. Presentation of flag and singing national anthem, with address of welcome by Master Buckner, was the program, at which activities of the Grange were reviewed to 1934 when it was formed. Pomona Master Leo Kloske gave the history Grange. Recordings of the Del Norte County fair were put on by Bob McClure, secretary-manager. These recordings were made by KIEM during the fair. Other numbers on the program were Readings, piano and guitar selections by Mrs. Melvin Ferrill and Billy Chaney. Community singing, followed by motion pictures. A social time was enjoyed at the close with doughnuts and coffee served.

Rally Day will be observed at the Community hall, Sunday by the combined services of Smith River and Gushchu churches. The Sunday school will be held at 10, with services at 11. Rev. E. C. Hick will tell of the history of the local church, with its founding in 1854, and the 95th anniversary of the church organization. Pot luck dinner will be served at the banquet hall. All are invited to come, and bring the family.

A food sale, sponsored by the Smith River P.-T. A. was a success, Saturday. Dressed chickens, fresh vegetables, jams, jellies, etc, netted a tidy sum toward finishing up the annex building to the church, now used for class rooms for the school.

Mrs. Eddie Westbrook was an overnight guest of her sister and niece, Mrs. Ada Hursh and Mrs. Edna Ross Sunday. Mrs. Westbrook has gained her health since her illness recently, and many of her friends have called to visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald and two children of Compton, Calif., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Reynold Plaisted, and Mr. Plaisted.

Mrs. Ellen Higgins of Crescent City was guest of Mrs. Miriam Barnes and daughter, Mrs. Norton, several days, while visiting friends in the area.
