

Community Shown Way Functions Can Be Staged In Future

By Dewey Akers, Editor

There are many things that money cannot buy—the most important of all these is good will. Since last publication of the Pilot, two events have occurred in this community which have created unmeasurable good will. First, naturally, is the charter presentation, Saturday night, and the second was the Hallowe'en party, Monday evening. Both of these events have done more to unify the community than any two since the Pilot came into being, March 7, 1946.

In bringing this unity in the area, the people not only had fun but they created good will which will eventually reap many benefits for the community.

Talked to a number of the visitors, here Saturday, from Klamath Falls. The story they told would have made any local resident swell with pride. This story was told by relating the group's experience at other places they had been called on a similar affair: including Reno, Nevada.

"Brookings couldn't have done better had she had the biggest theatre in the world. What you had to offer here, you gave with your whole heart, without reservations. Your hospitality was the best. Your affair will ever remain in our memory as the truest example of democracy."

Monday's affair saw parents in the background, having fun with their children, being one of them for an evening. The children, by nature true actors, really put on a delightful show for their parents. The fun did another thing: the little ruffians were not in circulation to destroy property, to molest people's property. There was no desire after the fun was enjoyed. Of course, the little tykes had boxes for their "trick or treats"—but there was little soap in evidence.

Unity such as has been shown in the past week can do wonders to any community—let's help continue this effort.

Along Azalea Row

I'm all excited about our next meeting! November 10 is the date. We are fortunate to have Mrs. Daniel Heffner as our guest and speaker. We have read elsewhere in this issue of her years of experience in garden clubs which qualify her as a woman with knowledge of her subject. She is witty and dynamic as a speaker and you will be far too interested to see the neighbor's hats! A large attendance of members is expected, and this is an excellent opportunity to bring some guests.

We are having a flower show as well. With particular emphasis on "mums," don't forget the other garden beauties. There is an abundance of materials now in every garden for the clever gardener to select for display, and we shall have some very beautiful arrangements as well as entries in the flower show. Bring both. Golds, russets, browns, and orange, fall colors make beautiful displays. Exercise your ingenuity. Mrs. Martha Grayshel, flower show practice chairman, is in charge of floral arrangements, and Mrs. Eunice Wollam, horticulture chair, of the horticulture specimens.

Mrs. Grayshel will have a demonstration on fruit, and flower arrangements for the Thanksgiving table.

Hostesses for the day will be: Mesdames Eugene Ackley, chairman; Bolton, Lamerne Christianson and Struebing.

A number of Azalea Garden Club members attended the Siskiyou Regional meeting, held on Oct. 26 at Talent. Mrs. Ben Kerns Sr., Mrs. Bradley Page, Mrs. Harry Lockland and Mrs. Ruth Bathiany. Mrs. Bathiany was guest speaker, one of whom our club is justly proud, and her subject was "Fuchsias." She took with her over 50 specimens, and the audience was charmed with the speaker and her subject.

Mrs. Harry Fowler, state president of Oregon Federation of Garden clubs, was present at the meeting.

Fishing Reported Extra Good Here Past Several Days

With many functions commanding attention of the local people over the week-end, and no chance to make a survey of the number of fish caught, the Pilot did learn that "plenty" fish were taken in the past several days at the mouth of the Chetco.

The Klamath Falls singers, all avid fishermen, took plenty of fish home with them, canned or otherwise.

Lee Straley, last week, caught a 44-lb beauty, which, in a dying struggle, took a piece from his left thumb. Lee had the fish put up in cans for the days to come.

Walt Bomhoff caught five or more, all up in the "heavy leass," he told the Pilot.

W. W. (Wesley) Smith caught a 48-lb. salmon, which he had canned, and which he is dividing among his three daughters, on his trip before Dec. 1.

* Judging from the number of boats on the river, one can presume "where there's smoke, some fire is certain to be near." Boats wouldn't be patrolling the water for just pleasure alone.

Visiting Singers Enjoyed "Break" In Weather Here

Last Saturday, while Brookings was filled with visitors at charter night festivities, the visitors certainly had a break in the weather. With many fishing on the Chetco (and catching fish, too), some almost suffered sunburns from the 80-degree heat.

Only four or five other places in the United States, reporting to the United States Weather Bureau, showed warmer temperatures for that day.

The Chetco might have had more boats on it than Saturday, but certainly there never was an ardent crowd as was seen there Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning.

House Bros. Good As Advertised, Say People Of Area

"The House Bros." reputed to be one of the best male quartets anywhere in the west, were all they were advertised, claim all who heard them at Charter night festivities, at the Pine Cone Theatre, Saturday night.

These brothers, none out of their 20's, have sung all their lives, they told people here, but it has been just the past year and a half that they sang as a quartet. John Houston, director of the Klamath Falls group, said their greatest improvement has come within the past few months.

Friends of theirs who were at the local festivities also, told of their being offered contracts to sing over the radio. While not confirmed by the brothers, it is easy to imagine that they might be wanted to sing over a national hook-up.

flu, and complications arose, confining her to her home the entire time.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Clow and daughter, of Dayton, were weekend visitors of Mrs. Clow's sister, Mrs. Sam Gott and family. They attended the SPEBSQSA festivities Saturday night. They left for home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Swan are almost beside themselves with joy over the arrival of their first grandchild, last week. A girl was born to their daughter, at San Francisco. Mrs. Swan returned home late last week.
