Local Girl Called For Dec. 10 Trial Over Station KIEM

With over 16,000 votes to her credit last Friday, and more reported coming in, Patsy Cook who made quite a hit November 26, has been called back to Radio Station KIEM for Saturday, Dec. 10 for her second appearance as a contestant on "Stars of 1960" program.

Singing "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," on her first appearance, this Brookings freshman, just 13, hopes to win a radio for her room in this contest. When she returned from her first appearance, she brought a recording of the program, which has been in popular demand about the town.

Patsy told the Pilot that she hoped to make music her life work. She sings at every opportunity in both school and church functions. While still shy and not used to facing the public, Patsy musters up enough courage to carry on, much to the surprise of everyone.

She is grateful to people of the community who mailed in votes for her that she might have future appearance. In another column may be seen her note of appreciation.

"Stars of 1960" is an amateur program sponsored by Eureka merchants over KIEM for those youngsters under 15, who believe they have talents sufficient to warrant study toward stage or its allied professions. Patsy's dream is to be an expert in music, and she is grateful for this experience.

Just 17 More Days Before Christmas

To the kiddies it might as well be a month or two, but to the harrassed parents who have been trying to get that shopping done, the time already is much too short—for there is but 17 days left until Christmas.

This seventeen days means but fourteen shopping days until the day when the youngsters will need no alarm clock—to arise before the "crack of dawn."

Merchants of this area have made considerable effort to buy wisely and in sufficient quantities this year so that people of the area will find no need to travel elsewhere for their shopping. It is noticeable, about the area, how festive the spirit has become—how Christmasy stores do look.

Seventh-Day Adventists Hold Revival Meetings

PORT ORFORD—Leo VanDolson, pastor of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church at Brookings, Sunday, opened up a series of revival meetings at the American Legion hall, here. Subject of his first topic was "The Fate of Europe." Monday night, the topic was "Jonah and the Whale."

The series will run for several weeks, it was reported.

Nook Cafe Undergoes Repairing Program

Closed this week for repairs, and re-decorations, the Nook Cafe is undergoing its annual re-painting and alteration program, started by the Stollers.

The entire interior is being re-painted by Fay Klemmer, and the kitchen is being overhauled to meet the demand made upon it through the patronage.

T. S. Abbotts Send Word To Friends From Livermore

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Chambers, who returned home early this week from a visit at San Francisco with relatives, told the Pilot that they had driven to Livermore, Calif., to visit Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Abbott, former residents, now Greyhound agents at that place.

"Sid is taking treatments at the veterans' hospital, and Mrs. Abbott and Bob are caring for the busdepot, which serves 81 buses daily in 16 hours. The Abbotts have 18 rooms in the building, all full every night with travelers.

"The bus depot has a large restaurant, heavily patronized, and the entire place has just been re-decorated by the Abbotts since going there from Crescent City. Mrs. Abbott has gained so much weight and looks so well. Sid, despite the fact that he is under doctors' care, looks well. They send greetings to all their friends in Brookings."

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott, who assumed the Greyhound agency in Brookings in 1946, built the revenue here to a profitable business before being transferred to Crescent City. Due to ill health of Mr. Abbott, they effected a transfer to Livermore so that Mr. Abbott would be near the veterans hospital.

Mail addressed to the Bus Depot, Livermore, will reach them.

Girls Scouts Will Hold Court Of Awards And Investiture Service, Next Sat. Eve.

Saturday evening eleven intermediate girl scouts of Troop 3, will celebrate with a Court of Awards and Investiture service at the high school gym.

Troop 3 has worked for the last year under leadership of Mrs. Ira Brown and Mrs. Catherine Doherty. Some of these girls started their scouting work with Mrs. Henry a number of years ago.

Girls receiving awards and to be elevated into Senior Scouting are: Elaine LaClair, Dorothy Wilson, Pat Hiland, LaVern Landauer, Mary Lou Berger, Margie Freeman, Pauline Hendricks, Faye Rausch, Rosalie Kinion, Bonny Salvage, Bonnie Clauson. Senior scouting is for girls of 14 to 18 years or high school age.

Parents and friends of the girls are invited to attend the services as well as Troop 1, Girl

New Feed Store Will Start Friday In Old Planer Bld.

L. O. Baker, recently of Grants Pass, who has gone into partnership with E. Graue, of Crescent City, Friday will open "Brookings Feed and Seed" in the Gardner planer shed, he told the Pilot early this week.

"I have been in the dairy business before coming to Oregon, and since coming to Oregon, became a field man for a feed company, so have learned, first hand, the needs of the people of this area. I will open up with General Mills and Pillsbury feeds at the beginning, but will add other lines as soon as franchises are arranged. My partner and I've purchased the Butler stock at Crescent City, and he will have charge of that location.

"I am remodeling the planer shed so that a 6-foot dock will be adjacent to the building, permitting people to drive trucks there for loading. There will also be plenty of parking space.

"I will try to have all types of seed, and fertilizers to meet the needs of people of this area once it is determined what these needs really are," he added.

Elsewhere in this issue appears his advertisement.

Something new in the logging business for this area is being tried by Danny Haight of Smith River. He is logging in the Upper Chetco country and floating the logs down the Chetco to a site below the Chetco bridge, where they are cold-decked prior to being hauled to the mill. Mr. Haight makes the trips up and down the river in a river boat such as is used on the Rogue. A fine supply of timber is thus being tapped from an area where it would be almost impossible to truck out the logs. Anyone who has made the trip to the Upper Chetco bridge will understand why this is.

Scouts. Boy Scouts are also invited to come. Parents of all Girl Scouts are especially invited to be present so that they may see what the Girl Scout work is like and includes.

Extension Unit

Home Extension meets on Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 10:30 A. M. at Chetco Grange.

The demonstration will be "Buffet Meals," which will be given by the project leaders: Mrs. Else Reynolds and Mrs. Grace Edwardson.

All ladies are asked to bring sack luncheon.

Mr. Firthmiller, resident of the Chetco valley, is at Seaside hospital, Crescent City, undergoing treatment.

Car Hits Ravine; Three To Hospital

While many details could not be learned, two men and a woman were hospitalized Saturday night shortly after midnight, after their car had left the road and landed, nose down in the ravine directly across the road from Archie Anderson's home.

The wreck was discovered by a number of young men who had just completed their shift at the Swan planer. They (including Jack and Roy Johnson) rushed to town to summon the ambulance and notify authorities.

The driver of the car, a young man by name of Green from Coos Bay but employed with the paving crew, and a Mr. Baker, said to be a foreman, and a lady companion were released from the hospital at Crescent City early this week after being treated for bad cuts and shock. The woman was detained longer for observation, but also was released. Green was thrown free of the car which did not negotiate the curve. Baker and the woman had to be freed by use of axes after the seat had wedged them into the car.

The car, a new Dodge with but about 6000 miles, is said to be almost a total wreck.

R. C. Baughn is at Providence hospital, Portland, undergoing surgery in an effort to save his right wrist, fractured more than a year ago in a logging accident. This is his third visit to the Portland hospital.

Crescent Dock Was Explained Tuesday To Local Rotarians

Vaughn Pyke, of Crescent City who has had much to do with the dock development in that city, told the Rotary club, Tuesday noon, how Crescent City had gone ahead with the project when hope seemed lost, and how this united effort had resulted in help from every source.

"We had built a football field by selling $5 bonds. A few of us figured the same type of financing might work on the proposed dock. However, events of all types took place too fast. We went to work before we had obtained the land, before we had approval of the army engineers, and permission to use the land.

"When people of the county saw that we really meant business, money came in in sizeable bunches, so we have been able, to date to have about half of the proposed dock completed. It is marvelous how 'the little men' have come in with a few dollars and some donated some labor in addition. To date we have almost $15,000 of the proposed $27,000 construction work done.

"Our taking the bit in our teeth has caused us to get many inquiries from shipping firms, to learn facts concerning their different lines. This dock, not to be confused with that to be constructed by the Dutton Co., will handle most all types of shipping including about 3,000,000 ft. of lumber to be bought by Erwin & Lyons Co.

"We hope to have this dock ready for operation by February 1, and with it will come chance for mills to market in the south in competition with other mills due to savings in freight costs.

"This dock is just the beginning of a new era in this country. Other shipments such as chrome ore, fruits, and such will be sent from here. We will, then, be able to get incoming freight, and a resultant lowering of costs of commodities to be shipped here. Crescent City will not alone be the sole beneficiaries—Curry Co. will share equally with us," he said in closing.

Many Interesting Programs

Warren Smith, head of the program committee, announced the programs for the next six weeks, with a motion picture of the possibilities of the Columbia river, as viewed by the U. S. reclamation service, next week.

Dance Instruction Classes Popular

According to reports coming to the Pilot, the instruction of old-time dances, put on by the Odd Fellows dance committee, have proved popular, with more than a 100 at each of the first two events.

Old-time waltzes, polkas and such type of dances come in for popularity, the committee reports.
