"Deeds of Life"

Good deeds of life are like the flowers

That send perfumes along the way,

Which shows most loveliest at the end of showers

As they grow in strength day by day.

When summer days float near the end

And autumn days draw near

We miss the field where the daisies were

After they do disappear.

Much as the daisies—such is life

In youth fair treasures—in age much strife,

May cause us many a tear.

The innocent babe in its loveliness

Like a daisy, appears from above

Brings down to earth its happiness,

To this sorrowful world, with love.

In cheerful Youth, and Childhood free,
 With joyful hearts we play;
 The birds in song sing merrily,
 As they skip along Life's way.

We never miss the daisies then
 Until the summer's shorn,
 Just so with Life as years do wend
 And happy hours are gone.
