

Garden Club To Seat New Officers

PORT ORFORD—Heading the list of new officers elected at the meeting of Sunset Garden Club last Friday is Echol Nutt, president. Martha O'Hara is vice-president and Irene Baker, secretary treasurer.

Presiding officer, Fern Townley, announced that a judge had been engaged for the coming flower show, June 10 and 11 at the grade school. Copies of the schedule of entries were given out and it was decided to send one to each garden club in the area as well as to others who might be interested in placing exhibits in the show.

A silver tea and plant sale will be held both Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Mrs. Ethel Montgomery, show chairman, has appointed all her committees, enabling every member of the group to participate in the work involved.

It was announced that Sixes-Elk Garden club will lend its full co-operation in the grade school landscaping project. Any contributions of shrubs, or plants will be welcomed when the time for planting arrives. It was decided to wait until most of the preliminary work for the highway was completed before actual planting can begin.

Along Azalea Row

BY B. MILLER

GIVE, Ladies and don't spare the flowers! Bring all you have to the school auditorium Saturday morning so that a bower of beauty will greet our guests to the Azalea Festival. The community is having company and we want to put our best bouquets foremost!

Azalea Garden Club met last Thursday afternoon. Club members and guests were delighted by a program of songs arranged for them by Mrs. Curzon MacKenzie and her Azalea chorus, accompanied by Mrs. L. A. Harvey. Those taking part were: Mesdames MacKenzie, Harvey, Moore, Widney, Panzer, E. Moore, Patterson, Donnelly, Hanscam.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Donnelly sang two solos, "A Bowl of Roses" and "Ho! Mr. Piper." The chorus sang "When Day is Done" and "Chit Chat." An azalea to those women generous with time and talents. And another to Mrs.

Pernot Duff for her contribution to the garden club.

On display were five posters painted and presented to Azalea Garden Club by Mrs. Duff, for the annual garden club flower show and art exhibit. Painted in vivid sunset colors after the manner of European travel posters, these fill a long-felt need and can be used from year to year.

They are now to be seen in the school classrooms where a poster contest among pupils is in progress, supervised by Mrs. Mathews and Mrs. Garcia. Mrs. Vic Reynolds generously contributed for the prize.

The speaker for the afternoon was John B. Ebinger. If human ecology means nothing to you, I'll save you a trip to the dictionary. It is the inter-relation of man and his environment in respect to man, animals, wild life, water, soil and plant life. In other words, a fascinating subject of endless speculation having to do with conservation. John Ebinger favors the establishment of chairs of human ecology in our institutions of higher learning and a national resources board for the state of Oregon.

By means of resolution passed by local, regional and state garden club federations a policy of conservation of our natural resources can be put into effect, he said.

Mrs. Anna Knee of Monument Valley, Ariz., and Mrs. Lee Watson of Medford were guests.

Hostesses for the afternoon: Mesdames Lockland, chairman; Mabel Maris, Edith Low, Ina DeMoss and Ethel DeMoss assisted.

Here at Weedy Acres the birds are nesting now. Gone are the bits of cotton, and string put out for the nests. The tree swallow sits guard outside the little bird-house, and in the pine tree is a neat little nest with four eggs. There are flashes of yellow from the glade where the wild canaries fly and light, and near the house a linnet sings. Donald Cuiross Peattie says, "it is natural that women should like birds whose domestic affairs can be observed under the eaves, they love the sweetest singers, the brightest plumage, the species not too shy to be seen at close range."
