

Port Orford Couple Was Wed, Satur'y

PORT ORFORD—At an informal wedding, at 7:00 p. m. Saturday, at the Episcopal church at Gold Beach, Miss Frances Louise Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Norton, became the bride of Orris Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Smith. Rev. Father Lever performed the rite. The bride wore a white embroidered afternoon dress with halo hat of white net and carried a bouquet of white gladiolus. Her only attendant, Miss Shirley McKenzie, wore a navy blue afternoon dress and blue hat. Best man was Bob McKenzie. After a short stay at Trinidad, the couple will be at home here.

IT SEEMS TO ME:

By Dewey

Watched the baseball game—and to say that I was thrilled by it would be putting it mildly. What thrilled me most, if that is what I want to say, is the way Brookings fought back, and kept fighting, even when errors dogged every effort. At no time, until the last man was out in the ninth, did I actually feel in the least safe.

Myrtle Creek, if I must admit, had such a team as the Pelicans—they were good sports—they so wanted to win, too, and contested every run that the Pelicans were able to smash across by their solid blows. The factor of victory—that is what I call it—was the baserunning done by the Pelicans. Thieves of bases they were, every moment.

Myrtle Creek attempted these tactics, too, but Rob Westbrook knocked off a couple, so they never "got around" to scoring. The Pelicans committed several errors, but most of them were in a way excusable, for the lads went "after everything." These errors, while they hurt, did not take one ounce of spirit from the efforts of the Pelicans. In the clutch, their bats replied in the language scorekeepers really understand.

I was impressed by the showing of "Chopper" Westbrook in the role of receiver. True, he was ragged in four instances, but he is but a lad of seventeen, and believe me, has a lot of promise with a few years and games added to him. Watch, and see if my prediction is not correct. He kept base-stealing to a minimum and he did a creditable job of receiving, a credit to a man.

Bob Astin, also, showed how much a competitor he can be when the chips are all in. He faced real sluggers, and anything that was good to hit at—boy that would be suicide to throw. Bob had to pick off those corners, had to use his head and had to depend upon his fielders. Barrett at third, Matson at the shortpatch, Holzgang at second and Jollie at first help the morale of any pitcher. Their clubs are definite.

In the outfield, Pete Lesmeister has pent of material, each of whom are potent with the club. Finnell, Hanscam, Westbrook, McLean, or Astin, have the hitting and fielding power to aid any pitcher. On the mound staff Savage, Westbrook and Astin do just more than average chucking in this league. They are competitors, and that, if you please, is what makes the fans pay the fare and go back for more.

Following a trip to Ashland Sunday when the Pelicans hope to gain revenge for the indignities of a previous game, the Pelicans will meet Central Point on the ocal diamond the following Sunday. These two games are coveted by the Pelicans, who are out to make the Southern Oregon League tough from here Brookings, through the efforts of Pete Lesmeister, who is going down in his own wallet for so much of the expenses, has become well known in the baseball circles. Ask any opponent the Pelicans have faced. The Pelicans are the area's travelling ambassadors, and I believe they are genuinely worthy of the name.
