

IT SEEMS TO ME:

By Dewey

In the past week, by count, ten families have contacted the Pilot to seek houses for rent, during the time they will be employed here, some with the highway department, others by the electrical contractors now doing line construction in the area.

It is not pleasant to have to tell these people that I know of nothing available for rent. I am aware that some of this employment is for short duration, but the situation is only aggravated by these few. The need has long been with us. If anyone has rentals, they should notify some local realtor, or place an advertisement in these columns.

Considerable activity is seen in the community, especially from a highway crew, which will do considerable construction on the highway between the state line and Brookings. The Harbor curves will be straightened, and the highway widened to the state line. Some moving of homes and other buildings will be necessary—all of which points to greater growth of the area.

Used to think I knew most of the people of the area. Now, it seems to me that I know less than half of the faces that daily I see about town. Many of these, naturally, are with the highway crews or with the line crews, but many are not—have come here to enter the lumbering industry.

That garbage dumping question has come up again. Most recent complaint comes from Roy Brimm, who has improved the hill property, once known as the "Heights," north of town. People go up the road to the top to view the countryside, and on the way, dispose of garbage, which is not exactly a gentlemanly act for anyone.

There is a garbage dump provided, up the south bank road, for such purpose. It is no greater task to take the refuse there than to drive out on any of the areas roads and drop the unsightly mess. Many of these lanes or roads are private—dumping on them is no worse than dumping in someone's front yard.

This community has acquired another great asset in the family of Rev. Jack Mumbower, who moved into the parsonage at the Baptist Community church last week. Rev. Mumbower, dynamic minister, will be spiritual leader at the church, and it is the guess of the Pilot that he will do so much good in the community. Welcome to Brookings!

97 Heat, Sunday, Ushers In Summer

When local temperatures hit 97, late Sunday afternoon, local residents sought all available shade, beginning about noon. The beaches and swimming holes of the area offered some relief. A glance at the weather, as submitted by Paul Whirry, local U. S. Weather Observer:

For the past week, ending on Sunday:	Max.	Min.	Rain
July 24	64	51
July 25	70	48
July 26	54	58	T
July 27	64	53
July 28	64	54	.06
July 29	78	50
July 30	97	56
Rain for week06

Monday, until about 10 a. m., started out to repeat Sunday's scorching temperature, but a relieving fog came in to drop the temperature some 15 or more degrees before noon. However, the humidity was so low, Monday, that all work in the forests was stopped.
