

Port Orford

By Dorothy Asdel

Rains have made the rivers high enough the past two weeks for good salmon fishing. Among local fishermen who have had good luck are Wes Zumwalt and Rod McKenzie. From San Jose, Calif., came Mr. and Mrs. Bayfano and Joe Fareau for two weeks fishing on the Rogue, Sixes and Elk rivers, and had considerable success. They have been regular vacationers here at this season for the past four years, and were guests of Robert Haak.

Mr. and Mrs. Vic Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gearin and family returned last week from a six weeks tour of Mexico and Mexico City.

The first county teachers meeting of the year was held at Langlois Friday night. According to Mrs. Esther Abston, who is on the organization's publicity committee, one of the interesting highlights of the meeting was the report given by Curry Co. delegate to the National Educational Association convention at St. Louis in July, Mrs. Ruth Garcia. She reported that in return for cleverly-fashioned dried flower corsages presented by Washington state delegates, Croft lily bulbs from Brookings growers were given. Langlois cheese makers sent a great quantity of blue veined cheese to be consumed by those attending the convention.

Recent visitors at the George Baker's home were Mrs. Baker's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fitzgerald of Elgin.

Mayor and Mrs. Douglas Johnson were hosts to long-time acquaintances, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McFarland, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, last week.

Friday night, Oct. 27, will see the grade school rocking with gaiety for that is the day of the annual carnival, proceeds to go into the playground equipment fund. According to principal, Frances Kirtland, this year's affair promises to be more festive than ever with more games, a lot more booths and more entertainment for both youngsters and grown-ups of the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCornack attended Lewis and Clark College home-coming at Portland last week-end and saw their alma mater trounce Willamette 20 to 6 in the pigskin classic.

Word has been received that Dr. D. D. Hill of Oregon State College farm crops department and his family will live in New Jersey where Dr. Hill is trading posts with a New Jersey professor on the same line of teaching for four months. They will trade homes for that period as well as positions. Dr. Hill has many acquaintances here as he has been active in supervising the Gorse control program in Curry County which has been in charge of Don White.

Robert Labar is spending a few days in Baker elk hunting and relaxing from his arduous long hours of work at his service station here.

Mrs. Orris Knapp returned last week from two weeks spent with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Angell at San Francisco. The Angells became parents of a baby boy, Nathaniel Christopher, earlier this month.

Realty Transfers

Ethel E. Puckett of Klamath Falls has sold her lovely tree-studded acreage on Pioneer road to George O. Gates. Transaction was handled by the C. O. & L. L. Leonard Real Estate agencies.

LOCAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith have gone to Pendleton by way of Burn, to visit relatives, and to take in the elk hunting when the season opens.

Jack Tungate returned home after visiting relatives at Butte Falls and Medford for several weeks.

Percy K. Lantz, independent candidate for county commissioner for the north end of Curry county, was in town Tuesday on his campaign. He lives at Sixes.

Curry County Booth Looms At "Pacific International"

Curry county, perhaps most remote of all Oregon's counties, and certainly the least exploited of any, gave patrons of Pacific International Exposition, Portland, something to think about.

Pictured above is the booth, designed by Nat Perkins, long a booster for this area. While the display space is limited, one may see, in the picture, cheese and other farm products, which are worthy of display at any fair.

With Ralph Cope taking about all the high dairy honors of the nation; with the timber products ranking almost as high; with Curry county noted for its fine lilies and winter flowers, sooner or later the world will wake up to the fact that the last frontier is there, waiting for the taking. Potentially this county of Curry can outrank nearly all others in production of berries, of all kinds, as well as leafy vegetables, if only someone would become aware of the things which are here.

The biggest trouble with Curry county is the people's attitude toward their surroundings. Most people do not realize what a garden of Eden surrounds them.
