

'Not Time To Be Lost,' Rotary Told

"We don't have time to get lost, but we do have time to solve the problems of the world," claimed Miss Joy as she spoke to the Rotary club, Tuesday noon at the Baptist church basement, where the club met for the week. Miss Joy, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Joy, is assistant minister of the Fellowship Church in San Francisco.

In explaining the mission of the church, Miss Joy stated: "If God is the creator of the universe, then all men are brothers." The Fellowship Church provides a religion where all races, colors and creeds can gather and worship a common God.

In working with the different races, Miss Joy told Rotarians "Our similarities are so much greater than our difference, that the differences fall away and become incidental when the oneness of religious fellowship is emphasized."

The Fellowship Church has a local, national and international membership of about 500 at present and operates toward the goal of promoting better inter-race relationship and understanding.

More Daffodils To Portland Markets

Not to be outdone by any of his contemporaries in this area, Fred Gustafson told the Pilot last Thursday, that he, too, had that day shipped a case of daffodil blossoms to the Portland markets for the Christmas trade.

The blossoms, shipped to the Oliver and Thompson, Florists, were field grown, and according to Mr. Gustafson they will be "coming on" rapidly about the first of the year.

Early to market blossoms are the ones that are most profitable to growers, and those who have thus far been that fortunate, do a bit of bragging—especially of the local climate.
