

Brookings Pelicans Must Re-Build For Coming Season

Moguls of the Southern Oregon Baseball league met March 4 at Grants Pass and formulated plans for league play in 1951.

Representing the Brookings Pelicans at this confab was Pete Lesmeister, business manager of the local team, who reports that even in face of the war conditions the league will go ahead with a regular schedule.

Rogue River has definitely withdrawn from the league but in their place will be Coquille in case the latter is not tied up at present with the Southwest Oregon League. It is now indicated that this group will not have a league this year.

Some of the outstanding players of the 1950 Pelicans will be lost to the team by way of their call from Uncle Sam. However, with the advent of new industry in this community, it is felt that there should be many new additions to this year's club.

Connie Holzgang, second baseman, will probably be in the local picture as will Bill McLean, outfielder who is currently starring on the maple court for Southern Oregon College of Education.

Plans for bleacher seats at the local diamond are in the making and these should be ready by May 20, which is the date set for the opening game here. Grants Pass will be No. 1 foe of the Pelicans in this new season; this game to be at Grants Pass on May 13.

Lesmeister hopes to start practice by April 1 and the local stalwarts including Matson, Hanscam, Hank and Bob Westbrook, are expected to be the nucleus around which the team will be built.

Jim Barrett and Bob Astin were invited to spring training camp by the Medford Rogues of the Far-West League. This professional team is training at Healdsburg, Calif., starting April 3.

Barrett and Dick Salvage have received their calls to the service and Bob Astin is expecting his call momentarily.

The first home game will be against Crescent City, May 20.

George Funk Tells Rotarians Of His 2-Month Auto Trip

George Funk, member of the local Rotary club who just returned from a two-month trip in the mid-west and south, told of his experiences at the weekly luncheon Tuesday noon. He prefaced his remarks by telling the members to always keep a new directly on hand "because Rotary clubs do change meeting places and dates."

"We think that we, here in this district, have school problems. It seems that almost every place I went on this trip, and talked to people, the same old story came up—schools crowded—lack of finances, and such.

"This is especially true in the state of Illinois where the state has long maintained the little country schools. Now a movement for consolidation is afoot, and new buildings and facilities are needed. Wherever there is any progress, the same story is told—in Oklahoma, in Indiana, and in Arizona.

"I found the Croft lily still the most popular forcing lily in all places I visited. Southern lilies, and the Japanese lilies no longer are competitors. The Japanese lilies are diseased and are infested with some bugs or a worm which makes them uncertain quantities. The southern lilies are disease-ridden.

"Brought back my sister-in-laws, who hadn't been together since 1917, and the one who had never been out of Indiana, had many thrills on the trip.

"Visited many Rotary clubs on the trip. I still like the smaller clubs because there is where you feel the real fellowship so noted in Rotary."

Mr. Funk closed his talk about the trip with a few remarks of his visit to the Omaha stockyards, now almost the largest in the world. "You must make that trip if you are ever near Omaha—you'll be surprised."

New Board Named

John L. Mumbower, Ross Putnam and Fred Moore were named to the board of directors, at an election held Tuesday. With Lynn Hampton, Merle Hanscam, Lloyd Moss and Pete Lesmeister, make up the board of directors, which will name club officers at a meeting soon.

The club voted to assume the sponsorship of the local ambulance, and will make a drive to either get another or to have the old one thoroughly reconditioned. A committee will report at the next meeting its recommendations.
