

Vacation Bible School Sets Date

All boys and girls from five year and up may attend the Vacation Bible school at Baptist church, beginning Monday, June 4, to run for two weeks.

Registration will be held at 9 to 11, Saturday, June 2, at the church. Miss Velma Richardson, trained in the Fuller Foundation, Pasadena, will supervise the course.

School hours are from 9 a. m. to 12 daily, Monday through Friday for the duration. A program is planned to entertain as well as instruct with character building the theme.

Interesting art work designed to train small hands, stories illustrated with the always fascinating flannel pictures, games, songs, with a display of hand-work and memory work at the end of the course always surprises the audience with amount of knowledge the children retain from the course. A picnic at the beach will close the affair.

Parents owe their children an opportunity to learn there is a supreme power and a chance to balance their education with a little spiritual training.

The average attendance the last two years has been 60. More are expected this year.

Robt. Bowlin On Tech Honor Roll

SAN DIMAS, Calif.—Burning of the midnight oil put 14.2 per cent of the student body of the Southern Campus of the California State Polytechnic College on the college's Winter Quarter honor roll. The basis of this honor roll is the achievement of a B average or higher. The calculation of this honor roll is done by multiplying the number of units by the number of grade points earned. The student has to have twice as many grade points as units. Grading is by three points for an A, 2 points for a B, and one point for a C.

One of the 50 students chosen for this honor was Robert Bowlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bowlin, Box 35, Harbor.

The honor roll has been increasing every year, as well as the intensified course of study. The administration has given each student close attention in every way for preparing them for future jobs in the line of agricultural inspection, agricultural journalism, Ornamental horticulture, citrus fruit production, crops production and many other fields

LOCAL NEWS

Mrs. Edward Grootendorst received a letter from her son, Pete, last week, vividly describing his sensations during his first parachute jump. How he felt as he stepped out the open door of plane, until his chute opened and how the ground came up—and Pete said he did not even then feel he was falling. He made the initial jump without mishap although a few of his buddies were not so fortunate. He is so pleased with his assignment in the defense program and is looking forward to regular jumps.

Harbor Community club is to hold a food sale Saturday, June 2, to raise funds to aid Chetco Library. Home-made pies, cakes and cookies will be on sale at Dimmick's Brookings Market, at 1 p. m.

Mrs. Florence Pratt of Ashland spent the week visiting her daughter, Kathryn Reekman, and taking in the Azalea Festival. Mrs. Reekman returned to Ashland with her monday to remain over Memorial day.
