WALK SAFELY

Are you a chip-on-the-shoulder pedestrian—challenging automobiles to the right-of-way?

Take a look at yourself! How would you like to "weigh in" for a combat with a car, asks the AAA driver training book, "Sportsmanlike Driving."

Cars clearly have the edge over pedestrians—in size, weight, strength, and hardness of material. Flesh, blood, and bones must "throw in the towel" long before steel, glass, and chromium.

A driver in his car is practically encased in armor. So there's every sportsmanlike reason why he should show courtesy to the weaker pedestrian. But if a driver fails to show that courtesy, pedestrians with good sense keep out of his way.

What chance has a 150-pound pedestrian, walking at 3 or 4 miles per hour, against a 3,000-pound car at even the low speed of 20 miles per hour?

The law gives pedestrians the right-of-way. Common sense often takes it away from them. When car and pedestrian collide, it is the pedestrian who is taken to the ambulance!
