'Jacks Won S.W. League Playoff

The Coos Bay-North Bend Lumber Jacks, first place team at the end of the Southwestern Oregon league season, also won the post-season playoffs by defeating the Coquille Loggers, 10 to 5, at Bandon on Labor Day. Veteran hurler Stu Fredericks, who had defeated Medford's Cheney Studs, 8 to 3, on Sunday, also pitched the entire game on Monday.

Coquille, with Don White on the mound, gained the finals on Sunday by winning over Bandon, 7 to 3.

Bandon took third place in the consolation game on Monday as "Doc" Dierick pitched three-hit ball and gained an easy win over Medford by an 8 to 2 score.

Cheese Industry Topic At Rotary

Earl Breuer, one of the owners of the Seaview Dairy and member of Brookings Rotary club, told the club members something of the manufacture, history as well as the problems facing the food industry, Tuesday noon.

"Cheesemaking was an art spoken of in the Old Testament and is the only part of the milk industry that we know little about. There are some 18 varieties, results of the different cheesemakers' experiments. Cheese ranks exceedingly high as one of the first group of nutritive foods.

"In 1920, the average American consumed about three pounds of cheese per person per year. Today the figure is about eight pounds. In Europe this figure runs from 12 to 15 pounds.

"Facing the industry today is a greater demand than ever before, and opposing this we find that there is a definite trend away from the farm. Right in Oregon the cow population has decreased at an alarming rate. Portland, about 20 years ago, was almost self-supporting in milk consumption. Today Portland goes as far as 150 miles to get the necessary milk supply.

"Yet in face of this demand-versus-supply, the average American is much more fortunate than others over the world. Here, we Americans only spend about one-fourth of our earnings for food as compared to as high as 90 per cent in some countries."

Sam Hall, Clive Manley and E. H. Grootendorst were welcomed into the club as new members Tuesday.

Mrs. Palm Stout of San Francisco, her son Bob and her sister and husband, are at her home near the school for a short time.
