Second Parade Packed Theatre, Saturday Night

Popularity of the S. P. E. B. S. Q. S. A. certainly did not diminish last Saturday evening at the second annual parade, held here. Judging from the enthusiastic crowd future affairs will draw even more heavily. For entertainment, certainly one could not find anything to surpass the type furnished last Saturday evening.

To try to pick a "best" quartet would be like trying to pick a best apple pie, or a best meal when you are hungry. Perhaps, if one would like to be partisan, the Rose City Four of Portland came the nearest being "best"—all due, without question, to the versatility and showmanship.

Bob Perkins, the "daddy" of the Brookings chapter, came from Portland to act as master of ceremonies for the occasion and was certainly at his best, greeting old friends and being surprised at the progress made by the community since he left a few months ago.

There was only one Jim Sorenson, lead for the Rose City Four, who could about imitate any voice on screen or radio—in addition to others whom he wished.

The Four By Four of Crescent City bids promise that others in the district must get better, or else they will have stiffer. The Four Tune Four of Eugene had plenty on the ball Saturday evening, and the crowd wished to hear more.

Of course, there were the Four House Brothers of Bonanza, who will draw an audience any time in Brookings. They appeared at two spots on the program.

The Harmonettes were as attractive and popular as ever in their appearance.

By request Bob Perkins and his old Oceanaires, George Guthrie, Charles Grayshel and Brad Page, made their amazing comeback after months of no practice.

Four-Get-Me-Notes, a new four in Brookings, gave promise that some day, they too would demand a spot on a parade.

All choruses, Crescent, Klamath Falls and Brookings, showed the usual form and pleasing entertainment. As a finale, the three sang as if the entire bunch had actually "grown up in barbershopping in the same group."

Since there were so many visiting Barbershoppers, only the participants were invited to the afterglow at the Grange hall.

Pilot Late When Linotype 'Breaks'

This abbreviated Pilot, late on one of those few occasions, came as result of a breakdown to the Linotype, which burned out an element in the pot which melts the metal to make the type, and a broken mold wheel, the vital cog in its operation.

A printer is due here next week from Dunsmuir, Calif., to help in the mechanical end of the publication. Tom Martin, one of the best operators ever to sit at any linotype, felt the urge to be "on his way" after a short time on the force.

Home Extension Bills First Meeting

Ladies of the Brookings and Harbor area are reminded that the first fall meeting of the Chetco Home Extension units is set for Oct. 17, at the Grange hall at 10:30 a. m.

The subject will be: "Care of Rugs and Upholstered Furniture" and everyone is welcome.

Come and meet the new home demonstration agent, Wanda Gossage. Pot luck luncheon.

Heads For College

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hassett and daughters visited at the Don Vaughan, Mary Ettinger and F. B. Hassett homes, Oct. 3. Chas. was just discharged from the Marine Corps reserve. He had spent the past year, stationed at the El Toro, Marine Air Station, at Santa Ana, Calif., as weather observer. He has gone to Seattle to complete his course in meteorology at the University of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Juellson, visitors at the parents Hassett home are on their way back to Kodiak, Alaska.

Daughter Visits

Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Miller are enjoying a visit from one of their daughters, living in the east, who arrived Wednesday to stay several days. The Miller resided for many years in or about the capitol city, but now enjoy the Pacific coast weather much more.

Came Home Empty

H. A. Jochens and W. J. Collis returned from Idaho Tuesday evening without the elk they sought during their hunting trip in that second school, towing a small boy, tion of the country.

Gene Gould Now Near Chicago, Ill.

Pfc. Gene Gould, former employee of the Pilot and graduate of University of Oregon school of journalism, recently completed 13 weeks basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, and has been assigned to the public information office at O'Hare Air Force Base, Park Ridge, Ill. He is with the 152nd Fighter-Interceptor Wing which provides air protection for Chicago and the surrounding industrial area.

The public information office handles news releases of promotions and transfers to home town newspapers as well as reporting the activities of the base in an effort to promote better understanding of the air force and relationship between the air force and civilian population.

Gene is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gould, Brookings. His address is: Pfc. Gene Gould, Hq. & Hq. Sq., 142 Ftr-Intep Wing, O'Hare AFB, Park Ridge, Ill.

Big Fish—For Lad

Donnie Munson may be a little fellow as far as pounds go, but he can catch big fish—anyway, 16 pounds of the coveted game.

Last Wednesday afternoon he was seen hurrying home from the Chetco, holding the fish in his arms. Their combined weights barely kept Donnie on the earth—but he did manage to get back home in a hurry.

Takes Over Agency

Mrs. Clifford Sisk and Mrs. Ira Brown have taken over the local agency for the Penny-wise Plastic Co. of St. Louis, Mo. and will demonstrate their line at a party given by Mrs. Harvey Foster, Wednesday afternoon. This product is endorsed by Good Housekeeping Magazine and includes everything for the home from kitchen to the nursery, and from dad to baby, says Mrs. Sisk.

'Use' For Pilot

There is a lady in this town who claims she is too busy to write to her mother, but who wishes the Pilot would carry or convey "hello, mother," from M. The subscriber whom this concerns, should know the meaning and the "voice" of her daughter.

Ambulance Com.

Regular quarterly meeting of the Ambulance Committee was held at Brookings Electric and Radio Co. office, Tuesday evening.

Two new stretchers, as good as may be found in larger cities, have been purchased, totaling an expenditure of $235. A few accessories, yet to be added, are being considered.

The report showed 13 trips in July, August and September.

The committee hopes that the ambulance will be self-supporting henceforth, since all equipment is practically paid for, and since all labor is voluntary.

Orville Gensmer, Gold Beach, was a visitor here Saturday and attended the "Parade" that eve.

Noted Lady Lectured On European Conditions

Mrs. E. E. Kilpatrick, of Merrill, delegate last year to Copenhagen, Denmark from Oregon State Home Extension Council along with three others, spoke Tuesday noon to Rotary club, and will be principal speaker, Thursday (today) afternoon at Azalea Garden Club. In making her talk interesting, she had colored slides to illustrate her experiences both going and coming on her trip.

Salem Man Will Address Church

E. B. Hays, chief censor of the Oregon state penitentiary, Salem, will be speaker at the Seventh Day Adventist church, Brookings, Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

He has addressed large audiences both in and out of the state and has thrilled his listeners with his real-life stories and experiences.

Preceding the lecture there will be a half-hour of vocal and instrumental music. Everyone is urged to come early. There will be no admission, only a free-will offering.

Local Business Was Featured, Sunday

The seaweed business of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wallace of Harbor, publicized last spring by Mrs. B. Miller in Along Azalea Row, was topic for a full page in the magazine section of Sunday's issue of The Oregonian.

While the article did not tell as much as did Mrs. Miller, it did show that state-wide recognition was again given this area, so much in the public eye today.

4-H CLUB ACHIEVEMENTS GIVEN AT P.-T. A. MEETING, THURSDAY

More than 60 names of 4-H club members of southern Curry county were read, last Thursday evening at the October meeting of the local Parent-Teachers Association meeting, which was also an achievement day for the youngsters. More than 40 of the group were first-year members.

Miss Wanda Gossage, new Co. HDA, spoke on the achievements of the members, and called several forward to receive prizes won at the county fair, and at the state fair, held at Salem.

Members of the 4-H Horse club, led by Rev. Jack Mumbower, came in also for many prizes and much praise from the county leaders, who made a plea for additional leaders in this area to help in the stepped-up program anticipated next year.

Leaders were not without recognition, especially Mrs. Lillian Zumpfe, and Mrs. Henry, whose 4-H affiliations dates back to her childhood.

Clifford Jenkins, county agent, spoke on what he would like to see function in this area, of how sorely leaders were needed to help the youth which, this year, had set a terrific pace for the entire county. He told of how Paul Davis had started a tractor club, and stated he expected that these boys, in the next couple of years would make quite a name for this area.

For her outstanding work in the livestock club, led by her stepfather, Alvin Henry, Alma Duffy will be awarded a registered heifer, given by George Burr Co., of Coquille. A story will come when the presentation is made.

Lois LaClair, and her sister, Elaine, both state fair winners, were given special recognition as five-year members also.

All club members were given pins at the presentation.

Mrs. Lloyd Moss, Mrs. Warren Smith and Mrs. Patterson of Grants Pass were guests at the Tuesday Rotary luncheon, to hear Mrs. E. E. Kilpatrick talk of her trip to Europe.

Got 10-Point Buck

Ed Ingram, the photographer, who says he's as good looking down a gun barrel as he is on a camera, arrived home Wednesday with a 10-point buck he bagged in eastern Oregon. His 10-year-old daughter wanted a 10-point buck for her birthday. Ed obliged.
