Sportsmanlike DRIVING

TAKE CARE OF TIRES

Take care of your tires! Motorists who fail to look after the "rubber shoes" of their cars head straight down a path to trouble, says the AAA driver training book, "Sportsmanlike Driving."

Under-inflation is the worst tire fault. Under-inflated tires wear out fast, make steering hard and braking uneven.

Over-inflation also is a bad fault. Blow-outs are more likely. The middle of the tread gets extra wear. The tire loses road grip. Chances of skidding are greater.

Worn tires are trouble-brewers. Sharp objects in the road easily pierce them. Punctures or blowouts constantly threaten.

Dangers of accident multiply. Suddenly "flats" put the driver on the spot.

Follow seven simple rules for tire care:

1. Drive at reasonable speeds.
2. Keep correct tire pressure.
3. Even up inflation when tires are cold.
4. Never drive on a flat.
5. Avoid striking curbs, holes, or rocks.
6. Avoid jumping starts or screeching stops.
7. Keep brakes adjusted and wheels in line.

Healthy tires help YOU wear a smile!
