

Sheep Disease May Be Controlled

GOLD BEACH — Dr. J. N. Shaw, head of the veterinary department, OSC, told sheepmen present at a recent meeting of the Curry County Livestock Association, that the pulpy kidney disease was the most important disease of sheep that they had to contend with here in the county, and that its control was brought about through using bacterin to insure permanent immunity in lambs six weeks old or older and serum to stop losses immediately.

Since the serum provided only temporary immunity, Dr. Shaw recommends that bacterin and serum both be used. He did not recommend the vaccination of pregnant ewes as a means of controlling the disease in lambs. He stated that identification is somewhat difficult since the lambs infected are very seldom found alive. Identification through autopsy is certain since the kidney is light in color and generally has an appearance of jelly-like fat, rather than a firm, dark color.

He recommended vaccination behind the shoulder rather than under the arm pit to eliminate infection and sore muscles.

A supply of pulpy kidney serum and bacterin is maintained at the county extension office, by the livestock association, Cliff Jenkins stated.

Eisenhower's popularity as a presidential candidate again was attested in the Minnesota primaries, Tuesday, when he was a write-in candidate, and he still gave ex-Governor Harold Stassen a real race. Evidently Eisenhower may be forced, by popular demand, to declare himself, and that soon.

Many basketball fans will take particular note of the outcome of the 'A' tournament at Eugene this week-end. Coos Bay, to several will be the choice for titlists. In the past six years, Coos Bay has been to the tournament each year, with nothing lower than a fourth place to her credit. Coos Bay fans are rabid boosters.
