Lesmeister Went Baseball Confab At Coquille, Sun.

Pete Lesmeister and "Whitey" Matson, business manager and playing manager of Brookings "Beavers" made a trip to Coquille Sunday and attended the second annual spring meeting of the Southwestern Oregon baseball league of which the Brookings team will be a member again this year.

Final details for the coming season which is scheduled to begin on the week-end of May 18, were ironed out. The league ran into some unexpected difficulties when Reedsport, which was originally going to field a team, pulled out of the league, leaving only seven teams. Eugene and Klamath Falls are being contacted by league officials in an effort to put the league back on an eight-team basis.

Pete says the new boys in the area are anxious to start working out but that first practice will not be called until April 20, which will leave four full weeks of practice before opening on May 18.

Brookings was scheduled at Reedsport for that week-end. If the eighth team is not added, Brookings will draw a bye for the first week.

New players who have talked to Whitey and Pete and who want to try out for the club are Bill Darnell and Bob Chapman of Glenwood, Wash., also Dale Landing of Ashland and John Hood and Harley Mitts. Hank Westbrook, of Smith River, Pete's old trusty, will be his aide in hunting players.

Any other players new to the area are asked to see Pete Lesmeister or Whitey Matson. It is the club's policy to use home talent wherever possible.

Attention!

Would you like to get rid of the old, unusable, clean clothes that are hanging or stored in your closet? If so, please drop a postcard to the Dorcas Society of the Seventh-Day Adventist church, Brookings, and they will be happy to pick up your bundle. The women of this organization have sent 11 boxes of clothing this year to the needy in Korea.

Jimmy, son of Paul Peterson, and his friend, Lee Perkins, who soon will be going to one of Uncle Sam's camps, came for a short visit, Tuesday night.

Education at Ashland are expected to join the club when school is out. Other player possibilities include Jim Nierman, Norb Wellman and Bob Franz of Oregon State. Pete is also anxious to line up Bill Hanauska of Salem, an ex-Brooklyn farm hand. Hanauska pitched two games for last year's Brookings team and allowed only one earned run.
