Along Azalea Row

By Mrs. E. F. Rapraeger

"For want of a nail the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost . . ." and in the matter of the Garden Club float almost all was lost for want of a carpenter and a float chairman, but thanks to Blossom Behee and her Ballet Girls the space was allotted to the Garden club in the lily parade was adequately filled. In the local garden club regime the lily float is the final gesture of the out-going president and Bea Miller wishes to express her gratitude for the help given to this project this year which was accomplished through the help of Eunice Wollam, Clara Kerns, Elsie Raveks, Dorothy Lockland and her neighbors. Erskine Miller is just now able to be up and around a little and even takes short walks around the yard.

The garden club meeting last week was held at Azalea State Park as scheduled and the thirty-five members and guests who attended were given an informative talk by Luther Tisdals on the shrubs and trees in the park, in particular the names of those growing around the picnic table area. Luther Tisdale is care-taker for both Azalea and Harris State parks and is one of those rare and unusual individuals who is completely happy with his work and surroundings. The title of "Care-taker" as applied to Luther Tisdals implies more than just keeping the park clean and the grass cut, for this man has the intelligence to make a complete and a thorough study of anything he undertakes and has the gift of introducing glamor into any subject he chooses to discuss.

Last year, at one of our meetings, he gave us a talk on earthworms which quickly dispelled all of our former thoughts of this being a "lowly" creature—we know now that it is our most cherished garden friend. And so he conveyed to us at Thursday's meeting that under the heading of Mycology, we may learn that the ground underneath our feet is filled with myriads of wondrous things.

"He who has a garden has three things which are needed; food for his eating, exercise for his muscles and spirituality for his soul."

From Los Angeles

Mrs. Paul (Dorothy) Shrader, and daughter, JoAnne, of Los Angeles, arrived late last week for their annual visit of relatives, and to view the Lily Blossom Time parade.

Amazed at the tremendous growth even in the past year, Mrs. Shrader kept remarking how few people she seemed to know. "We still own our home, above the Winchuck bridge, and still call this home, and expect to return some day," she told the Pilot. Her daughter will be a junior in high school next fall.

Mrs. Abbott Here

Mrs. T. S. Abbott of Livermore, Calif., and her friend, Mrs. Smith, came late last week, and spent until Tuesday renewing old acquaintances and to view the lily parade. This is the first parade they had seen since going to Livermore some three years ago.

Former Greyhound agent here, they are now agents at Livermore where Mr. Abbott is close to the veterans hospital for regular medical treatments.

Like anyone who has been away for any length of time, Mrs. Abbott could not believe her eyes to comprehend the changes of the past few years.
